Instructors Make Learning Situation

Because the students of Central are inquisitive, they learn. Eagerness is displayed by studying and helping each other. Inquisitiveness is displayed by listening and questioning. Listening to interested teachers, and then discussing information is a sure way of understanding and learning thoroughly.

Science Important Class

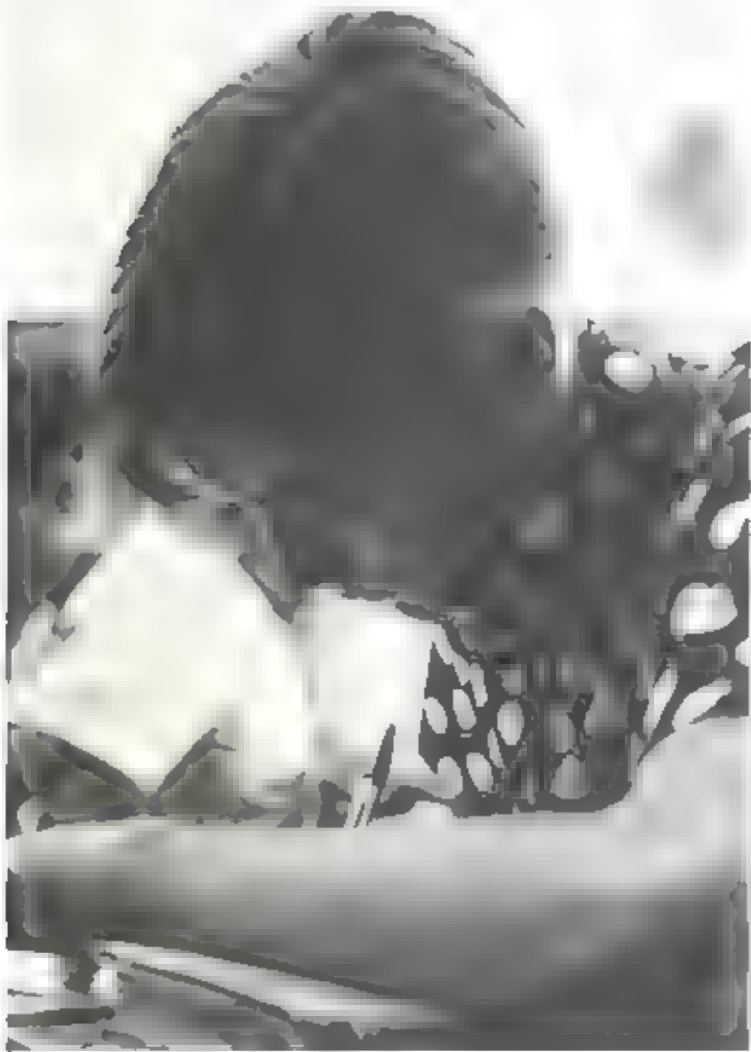

Here at Central there are many fine sources for knowledge and study. Eager to gain new knowledge, students keep their teachers thinking by their interest and their questions. The well equipped library and labs provide a quiet atmosphere and convenient place for study and independent research. This ability for independent study helps the student rely on his own potential.

Personal Development Comes

Learning: the year goes on, the Centralite lives and discovers with his fellow students. He has come to this school to learn and learn he does, not only in the capacity of a student but also of a man. He has goals. Although they may not be the same to each, to be best is uppermost in mind; it may be in running track, or being a better Christian. It may be learning to play the guitar, or even doing better on a test. Ever, these things are done for the fulfillment of the person and the betterment of school.

First at Central

Students Have

Fun Together

Sharing themselves and their interests, involving themselves with people, Central men learn to share. They help each other appreciate a student's life of cars, bonfires, and studies. The social events help each person like fun, and studies, and people. School is made up of important moments which involve us in our work with others.

Awards Won in Competition Bring Honor

Pride. A feeling of satisfaction with what a person is and what he represents. It is personal dignity that comes from associating with things of real worth. The price of pride is discipline; the reward, honor. Honor gives each man a good name, great respect. The fame of Central always lives in the distinction its students win with science and art

Enthusiastic Individuals Give Talents

Individual effort puts enjoyment into organizations. A capable member works for the pleasure of doing a good job. Loyal to school activities, a guy becomes useful, bigger. Painting a poster, playing a tuba, or getting a set ready on stage are his creative ways to be purposeful.

for School

Sport Spectacle Thrills

The thrill of fierce competition makes solid school spirit. School spirit unites people, who learn to take the breaks, good and bad, with sportsmanship. The spectacle of sport builds the individual and the group. The cheerleader draws out support. The player sees a way to a successful play. The Central crowd grows through a spectrum of experience. In an hour of play we better see ourselves in the game of life.

So it goes everyday. Each person comes to Central with his talents to give. He comes eager: meeting friends, learning new ideas, developing skills, growing. To seek excellence in himself and in his school, everyone gives what he is and somehow gets more in return. Central Catholic is the catalyst that expands the man, the mind. Each person finds who he is, what he seeks, where he is going.

Tremendously, This Is Central!

School Council

Central's School Council plans future events

Brother Robert Ernst is the principle of Central Catholic.

In the recent report from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to our Central Catholic Academic Council, introduction of the modern Biology Science Committee Study and "Chem Study" programs to the curriculum were praised. The school council's function consists of advising the principal regarding the quality of Central's curriculum, spirit, regulations, physical plant, and so forth. Changes to better Central and work to insure the welfare of students and faculty are the special work of the members. The members are principal Brother Ernst, chairman, Brother Eugene Janson, Mr. Maurice Enderle, Father Norbert Mollering, Colonel B. B. Ford, Father Warren Rorbach, Mr. Kenneth Kline, and Brother Robert Hatesohl. Each member brings expert resources to the council. Every area of the school's academic life is represented in the council. Meeting monthly, long range planning or immediate consideration of a present concern are processed.

High School Seniors Acquire . . .

In their four years at Central, the Seniors have learned four main things which will be important to them in later life: reverence, friendship, proficiency, and leadership. These are the characteristics which truly make the man.

As graduation approaches, the Seniors realize that an important phase of their lives is quickly coming to a close.

Central spirit burns bright.

Graduation: the end, yet the beginning

Pat Dailey shows the intensity of learning.

Spirit is half enthusiasm and half hard work as is shown by Booster Club members preparing for annual bonfire.

Friendship - Meeting the Persons with Whom

Dan Higgins laughs it up at Coffee House.

You Dare Be Yourself.

Lunch—a time to get together

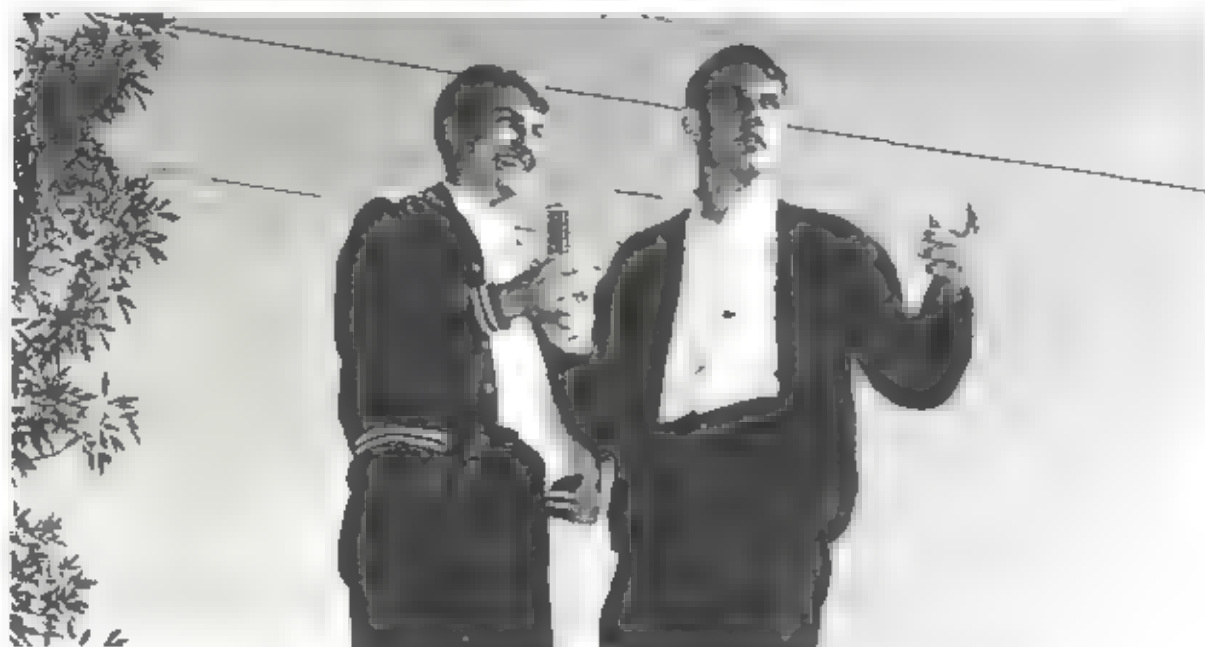

Friendship is the key word to happiness. Everyone wants to be liked, and this can only come about through knowledge. The Central Catholic student body provides the primary opportunity for students to get to know each other. The various activities and organizations provide more opportunities for friendship because they stress close co-operation in working toward a common goal.

Friendship charms members of the other sex.

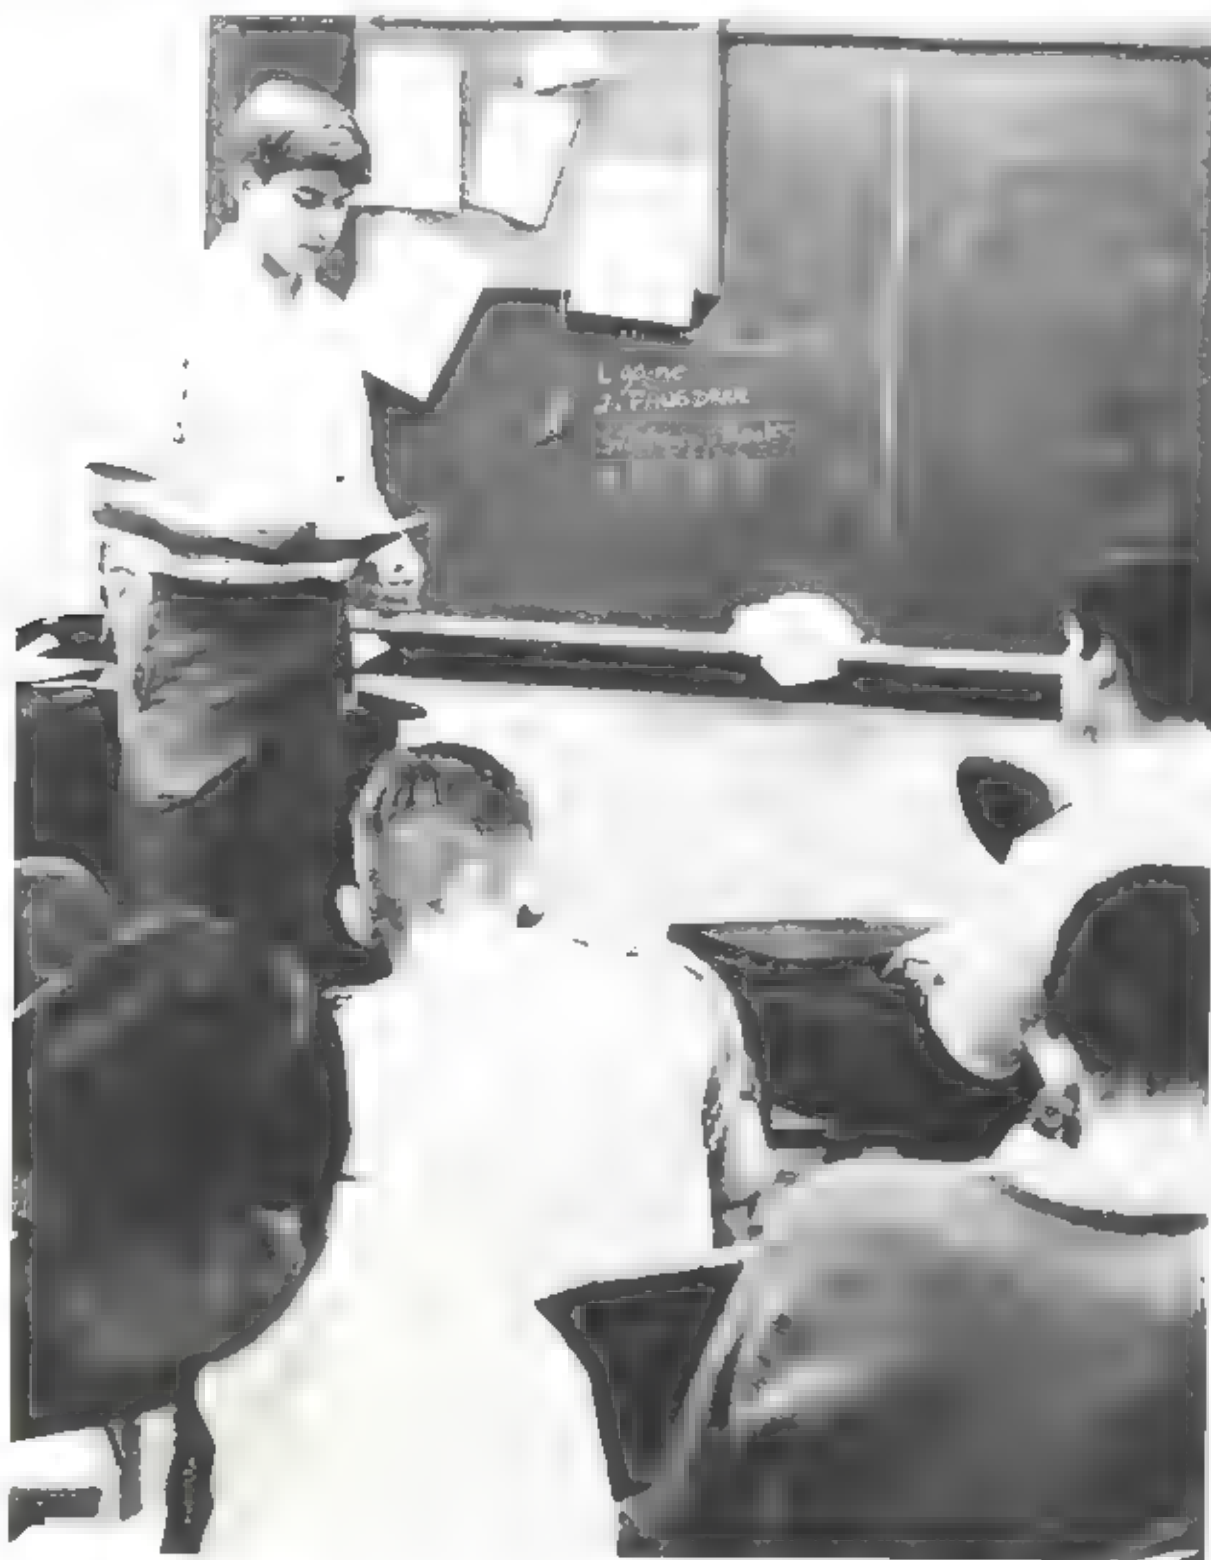

Leadership - Basis of Success.

Booster Club co-presidents Bill Bauml & Richard Reynolds lead pep rally.

President Darby Riley conducts business at Student Council meeting

Pep editor Pat Dailey assigns story.

Leadership is a vital part of success. This ability is evident at Central Catholic every where one looks: the drill teams, the band, the football team. In short in every activity and organization, one sees leadership displayed.

Leadership is displayed through the Senior Class. The faculty, however, is a prime source of inspiration to the Senior Class. Their help and advice have aided the Seniors in leading Central through another successful school year

Achievement - Proficiency

Speech Club president John Hierholzer outlines coming debate tournament

Proficiency is an important part of leadership. In order to lead in anything, one must know what and how to do it. The Seniors pictured on these pages, representing the entire class, have this know-how. By following the example set them by the faculty, they have achieved excellence in both academics and extracurriculars. The lesson of proficiency is an important one, one which will aid the Seniors of Central Catholic in achieving success in whatever they do.

the "Mass of Faith."

Central Catholic, as its name implies, stresses the Catholic religion. Here the student acquires a sense of spiritual well-being. He develops an attitude toward religion, an attitude of respect. This respect, or reverence, is a necessary principle for Catholic life. By developing this principle in its students, Central prepares its men for a true Christian life.

Guidance

The Guidance Department at Cental Catholic is important to every student be he Freshman or Sophomore, Junior or Senior. The Guidance Department is most valuable, however, to the Senior. Its experienced counselors can assist the Senior in making up his mind about college, the Armed Forces, or a career.

This year's Senior Counselors included Father Norbert Moellering and Bro. Eugene Janson. These men have made themselves available to all Seniors through personal interviews. These interviews give the Senior the opportunity to discuss any problems that he has and to seek competent advice on the myriad decisions which must be made by the potential high school graduate. In short, the Senior Guidance Department is one of the most important steps in the Centralite's preparation for college.

Brother Eugene Janson, Senior guidance counselor, discusses college with George Garza

Eric Anderson observes the guidance material.

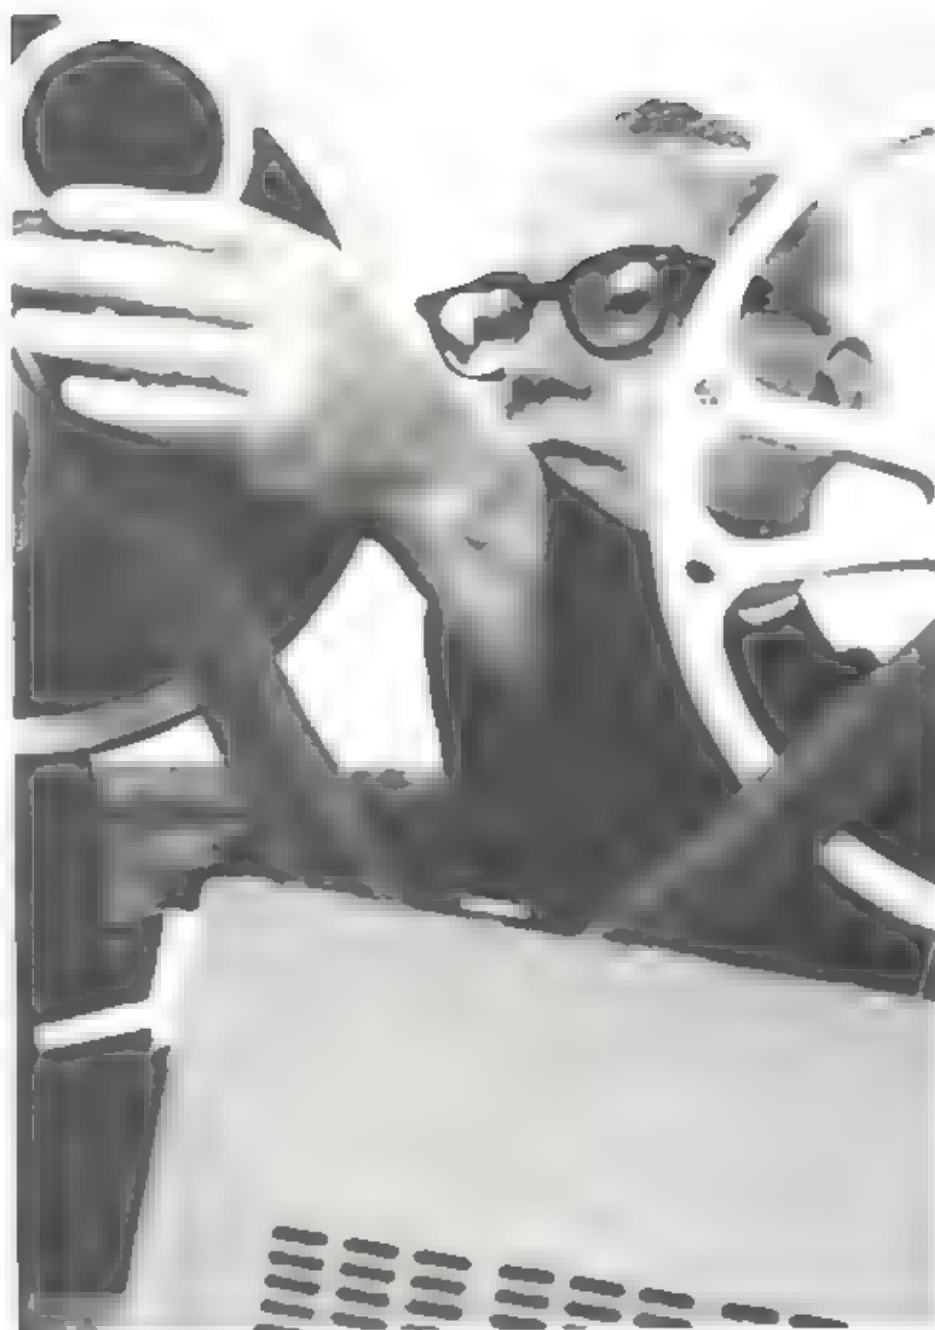

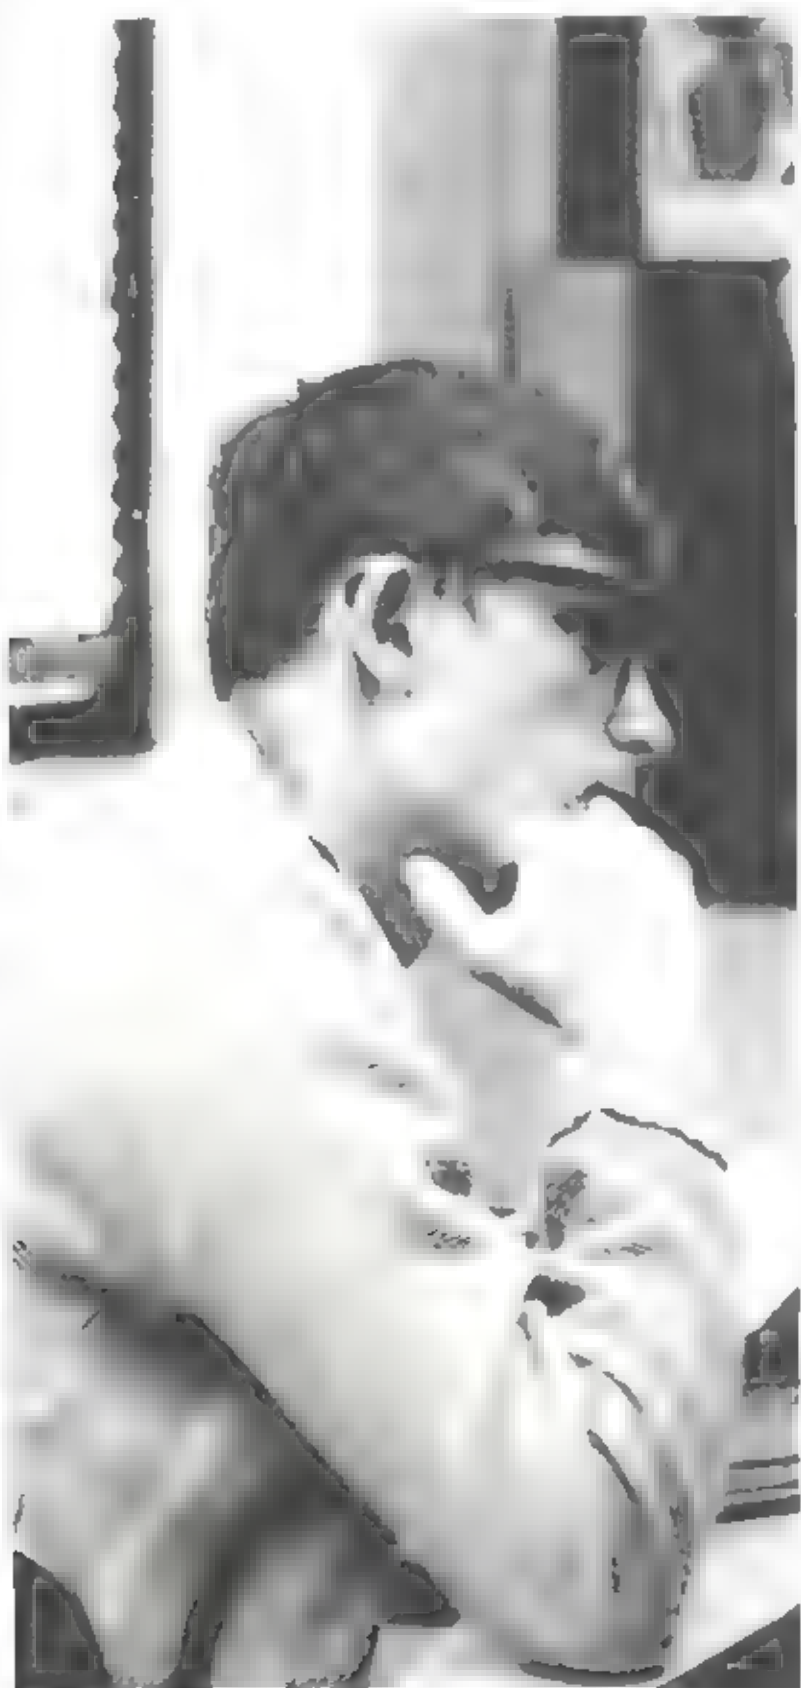

Religion IV

The aim of Central Catholic is not to develop the student as an intellectual and social being, but also as a religious being. Central's approach to the teaching of religion has changed along with the Catholic Church and this change has enabled Centralites to express their faith with much more understanding.

The Religion Department completes the third side of the student "triangle." It combines with the academic and social side of the Centralite to form a well-rounded, whole being.

English

Tom Milligan uses Brother McMurtrey's English library to check definition.

The English courses a senior has taken are more important than he may realize. English will help the senior throughout his later life in several ways.

In nearly all colleges a certain amount of English is an admission requirement. Colleges realize that the skills and knowledge of English will determine the success of the student.

In any career the senior chooses a good background in English will be necessary. A person may have fine ideas; but if he is unable to relay his ideas to his associates, no one will profit from them. A good basic knowledge of the English language and the development of reading, writing, and speaking skills will allow the person to express himself adequately.

Brother McMurtrey, chairman of the English Department, and moderator of the Anthology, teaches all Seniors.

Mathematics

Every aspect of modern life requires, directly or indirectly, a knowledge of mathematics.

Centrals Math Department, headed by Brother Herbert Jansen, realizes the great demand for mathematical knowledge and has outlined an excellent course of study which meets all college requirements.

This year fifteen seniors took part in the advanced "calculus" course. This accelerated course is equivalent to the freshman math course in college. At the end of the year this select group will take advanced placement tests which give them credit for the first of college math.

Central's math department is progressive and strong, and provides the necessary knowledge for today's student.

Brother Herbert Jansen, head of the Math Department, discusses problem with Bob Christiansen & Pat Segner.

Richard Reynolds receives the "good" news.

Science - Physics

Our present science-oriented civilization has made remarkable contributions during the past fifty years. Knowledge has accumulated at an unprecedented rate, and its frontiers are expanding continuously.

To meet the increasing demand for expanded science programs Central Catholic provides a curriculum to fulfill the need at the high school level. Today a sound background in the biologic and physical sciences should challenge the student's mind to seek new knowledge and give him the basic tools to achieve such an undertaking.

Here at Central Catholic High School the courses in biology, chemistry, and physics give the student fundamental knowledge of the various disciplines. The laboratory exercises are designed to guide the student in gaining experience with lab techniques and to develop the ability to make accurate observations, record, and evaluate them. The science program at Central, in short, not only gives the student factual knowledge, but also gives a stimulation for his curiosity and helps develop scientific thinking.

American Problems

Randy Kenisky receives friendly instruction from Bro. Janson.

The American system of government provides a fascinating course of study. But, more than being interesting, the knowledge of how our government functions is vital to us if we are to maintain the American democracy. In order to maintain anything, one must first know how it works. Around this idea of familiarizing the student with the system by which he is governed, Bro. Eugene Janson has developed his course in Government and American Problems.

In this course, Bro. Janson starts with the basis of American government—the Constitution. The course then progresses to the study of the history and functions of the various branches of government. Current national problems are also studied.

Thus the Government and American Problems course rounds out the student's knowledge in the social sciences, and it gives him knowledge which will be valuable to him no matter what courses and fields he majors in in college.

Bro. Eugene Janson, Senior Guidance Counselor, teaches Religion IV and American Problems.

Business activities touch the lives of every one. Everybody is faced with the problem of trying to balance his expenses with his income. This is what the Business teachers here at Central prepare their students for

The study of Bookkeeping provides definite and specific opportunities for everyone, regardless of his occupational goal. It also teaches one how to read intelligently, the daily news reports about business and economic conditions in the world

Business Law is concerned with the rules that apply to business situations and transactions. The knowledge gained from a study of business law should help you avoid legal difficulties

The knowledge gained from these courses will definitely confront one in his lifetime and it is hoped that these courses will help the individual to act in a wise manner in his lifetime and it is hoped that these courses will help the individual to act in a wise manner

Drafting

Mr. Fandel teaches Drafting and moderates the National Honor Society.

Drafting teaches the student how to communicate his ideas or plans with people in a manner in which most people will understand. At one time it was necessary only for scientists and architects to be able to draw proficiently. Today there are few fields which do not need some drawing or mapping. Undoubtably this need will increase tremendously in the next few years. The Drafting course, under the direction of Mr. Fandel, tries to show the most modern techniques of the professional world in order to prepare the student for any further course in this field he may take.

Mr. Fandel gives pointers on David Dennis's drawing.

Gilbert Cantu draws with precision and care

Mr. Cortez supervises study hall.

Physical Education

The goal of Central Catholic is to educate the student academically, spiritually, and physically. To fulfill the last aspect of the Centralite's education, physical education and health is available to those Juniors and Seniors not in R.O.T.C. Mr Joe Cortez supervised the program for 1967-68. The classes engaged in such sports as football, basketball, and baseball. In addition to developing the student physically, these sports gave him a sense of teamwork and the spirit of competition.

To supplement the activities of the physical education classes, a program of intramural sports was carried on at Central. Handled by co-ordinator Bob Saunders, the homerooms competed in such sports as ping-pong, flag-football, volleyball, and basketball.

Military IV

In his first year at Central, Colonel Ford has strived to continue the excellent standing of the R O T C program

Board members Robert Howard and Roger Benavides discuss the coming military events with Colonel Bobbie Ford

The R.O.T.C. student is given basic training which prepares him for the life of an American soldier. He is taught to exercise leadership principles and is given the chance to exhibit his personal ability. The cadet is also given instructions on subjects such as military courtesy, small unit tactics, map reading and weapons.

Besides preparing the student for military life, the military program prepares him to be a conscientious citizen. The program gives a good preparation for any line of work. It molds the character of the individual.

Spirit!

School spirit is not limited to sport activities. It is concerned with that attitude towards all that pertains to Central Catholic High School, and it can be achieved only through a unified effort made by every member of the student body. A unifying force is a necessity if this effort is to be successful. This force is supplied by the Seniors. The Seniors, through every activity and organization, help promote spirit

The date, May 18, 1968, the time, 8:00 p.m. marching in is the class of 1968: this is graduation night.

Graduation is the night every senior looks forward to, the day when four years of education and experience culminate. The senior looks ahead to his responsibility in life. He senses, after graduating from high school, he must change the habits of a teenager and begin to develop the responsibility required for an adult.

As the honored guests give their speeches, the graduate's mind dwells on many things: about college, military service, leaving home, past experiences, and all about graduation.

The time is 10:00 p.m. The seniors are now alumni. This night is the end and the beginning.

Seniors found some assemblies less interesting.

In the summer of 1967 the seniors received their rings, the first recognition of long, arduous, but enjoyable years of work. The senior ring is more than just a piece of jewelry; it is a symbol of intelligence, dedication, and pride. But it is more than just a symbol, it is fulfillment of goals a senior has set for himself. Its luminous blue stone and shining gold mounting tells the world of this man's achievement and signifies eleven successful years of study. But more than that it symbolizes pride in Central Catholic, its faculty, its students, in God, and in himself. The ring of a Central Catholic senior marks him as having met the first of many challenges. The senior ring marks the end of adolescence and the beginning of manhood. It would be a mistake, however, to say that the ring marks the end of learning. It marks only the beginning, it invites the Central Catholic senior to further his knowledge and better serve himself, his country and God.

Cooperation is the key word in any undertaking. Without cooperation there is no unity and without unity there is nothing. Cooperation has, therefore, been one of the main factors in maintaining the Senior class motto: "More than a fair year." Excellent cooperation with the faculty, student council, and student organizations has resulted in an extremely organized and representative student government. Cooperation in drill teams, in the rifle team, and sports has made the seniors the leaders of Central. The seniors this year have especially contributed to school spirit by cooperating with one another. Intramural sports set an outstanding example of this. The senior homerooms set an example for the entire school. Many other examples of school spirit through cooperation has made the Senior Class of 1968 one of the best in Central's history.

Academics

The curriculum here at Central Catholic has been designed to prepare the student for College. It is very complete and advanced in order to give the student a basis for his entire life.

Here at Central the student has great freedom in choosing the subjects which he feels will prepare for later life best. He can go into an advanced mathematics program, one which will entitle him to take calculus, a college course, during his senior year. He can also take a complete Business program which will help him in his transactions.

Honor Roll

Central Catholic is proud of its Honor Roll. People achieve membership on this list by attaining an average of 85% and keeping all marks above 80. High Honor requirements are harder to manage. They call for an average of 90% in all subjects. The student must also keep conduct rating on a respectable level. He may not have any one's in conduct, nor three two's. The primary purpose of the Honor Roll is to recognize students who have excelled themselves in their academic life here at Central.

After Graduation, The Central Catholic man generally assumes one of three roles: members of the Armed Forces, working man, or a college student. One of the principle aims of Central Catholic as a college preparatory school, is to prepare men for college physically, mentally, and spiritually. By Central's concentrated effort to develop one's intellect to its full capacity is an opportunity to learn one's God Given vocation.

Whatever we enter we remember what Central has given us.

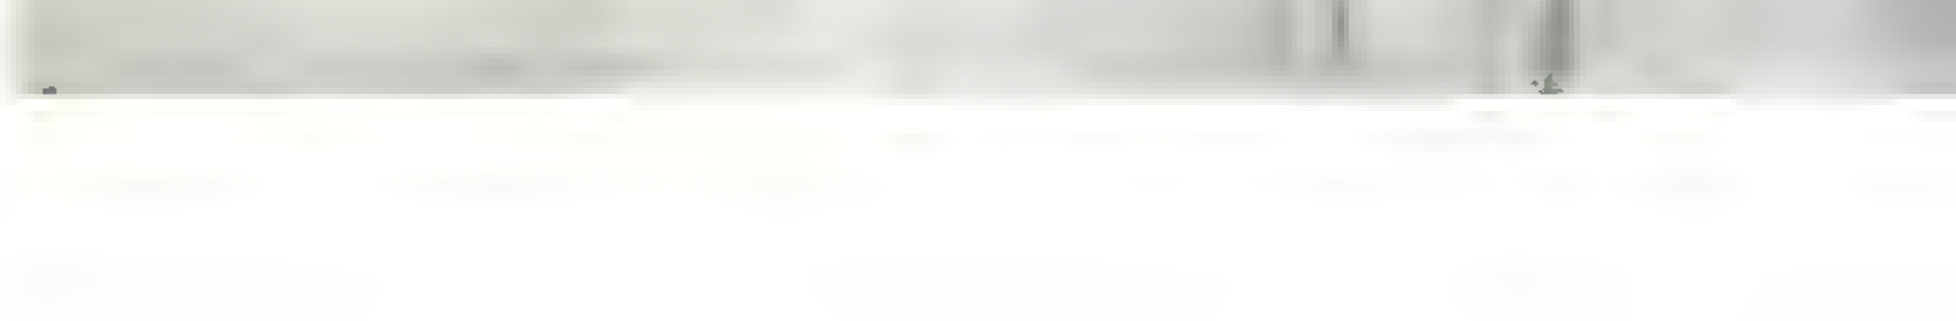

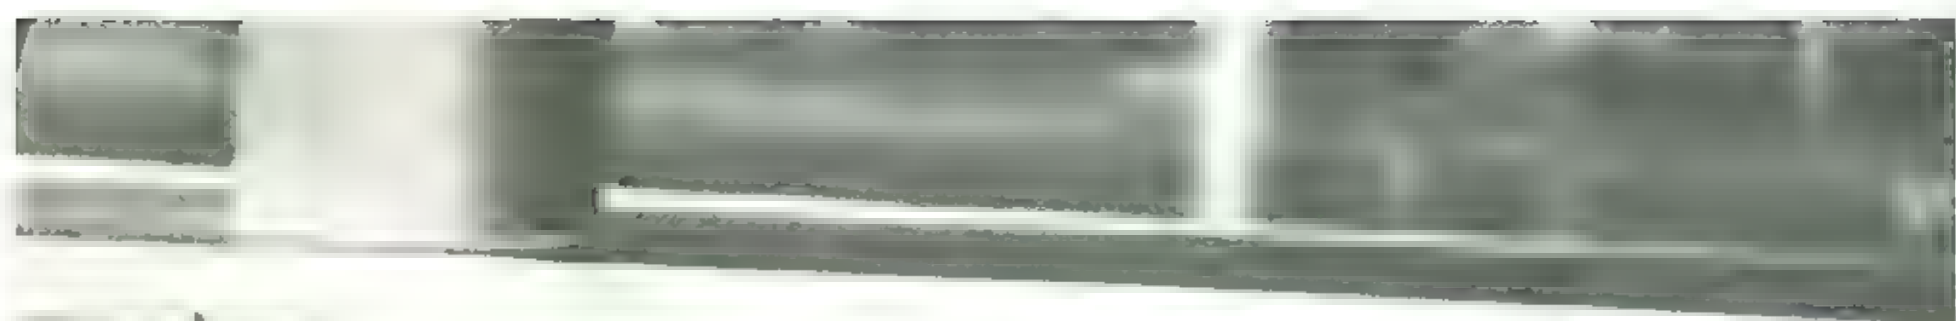

Graduation - The Day Has Come

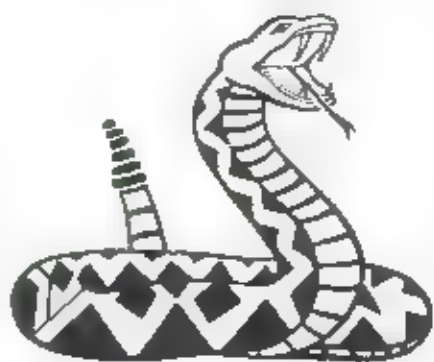

As the face of Central has changed, so have the Freshmen who came to Central four years ago. Changing old ideas and crushing prejudices, these men have experienced pain. During the graduation ceremonies they stand bravely scared. When it is all over, they emerge with an air of pride. They now face the future with an endless incentive to fight and to win.

JUNIORS

Juniors Active in Developing Themselves

Juniors help each other after school.

To many, the junior year signifies a giant step forward from the so-called unimportance of the freshmen and sophomore years. To some it is just another year. But to others it is a giant step forward to that final day of liberation, graduation.

Brother Richard exchanges quips with class.

Brother Martens discusses test grade

Students at Central are not only taught how to act as social and intellectual beings, but as religious beings, too. As Juniors, Central men are taught the value of morality. They are not taught new morality, they simply have their acquired morality redefined. They are instructed in the views of other religions and how they can be applied to their own lives. They try to discover what God wants them to do. Because religion is a way of life, they try to learn the best way to live and understand it.

Along with the many changes of the Catholic Church, there have been various changes in the religion program here at Central. These changes enable Centralites to express their faith with much more understanding.

English Is Writing and Re-writing

Mr. Phillip Watson replaced Mr. Enderle from the third term.

The unlimited versatility of the English language is appreciated more fully in the Junior year of a Centralite. Under the competent instruction of Mr. Maurice Enderle and Mr. Kenneth Kline, the junior class is better acquainted with the intricacies of English grammar and literature. With the basic foundation having been laid during the freshman and sophomore years, the junior English student delves into the complexity of language in all its forms.

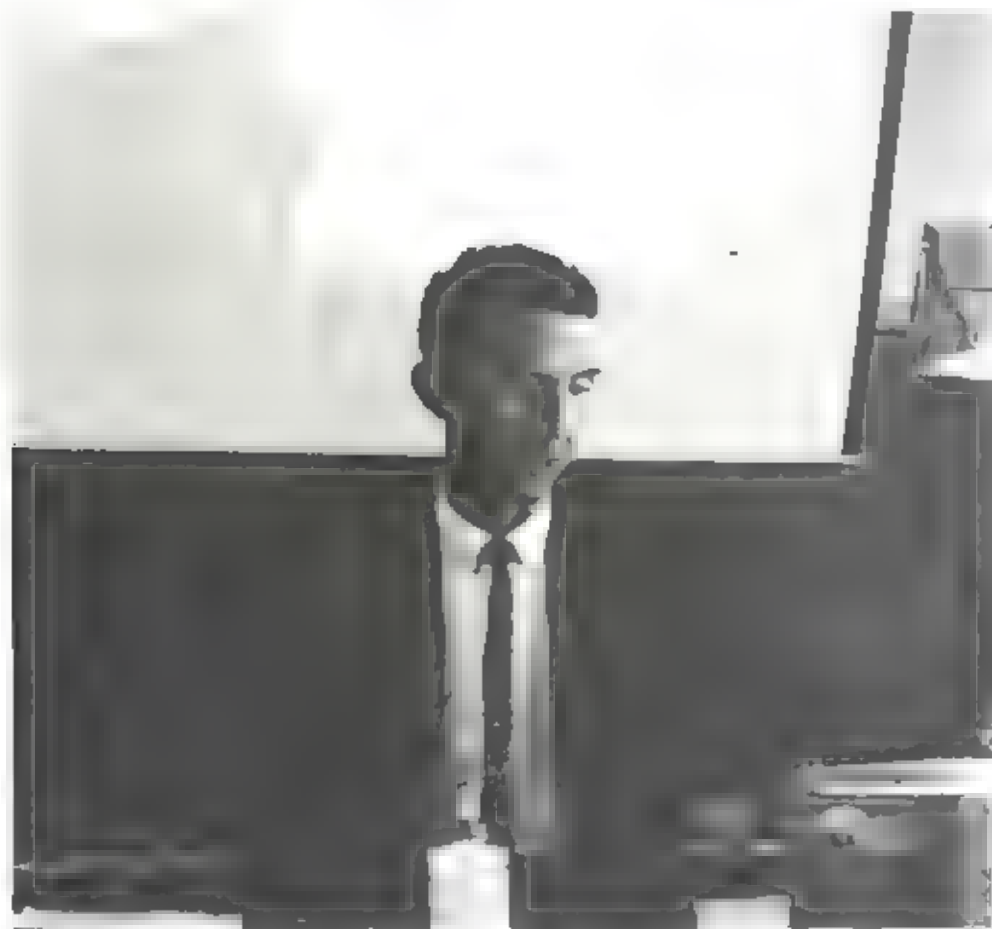

Of primary concern in junior English, is the coverage of great American authors and their works: Shakespeare, of course, is also taken. The student's skill in composition and essay writing is further cultivated as the year progresses. Finally, the annual intramural speech contest is undoubtedly a highlight of the many junior English activities.

Truly, the many intrinsic qualities of junior English is indicative of the excellence of Central Catholic's English Department. This extensive study of the English language contributes to the forming of a well-rounded individual.

Besides teaching English to juniors, Mr. Maurice Enderle moderates the Student Council and the School newspaper.

Brother H. Cornell, Math I and III; Ass't. A Football; Moderator of the Dance Committee

Bro. Cornell presents parabolic principles

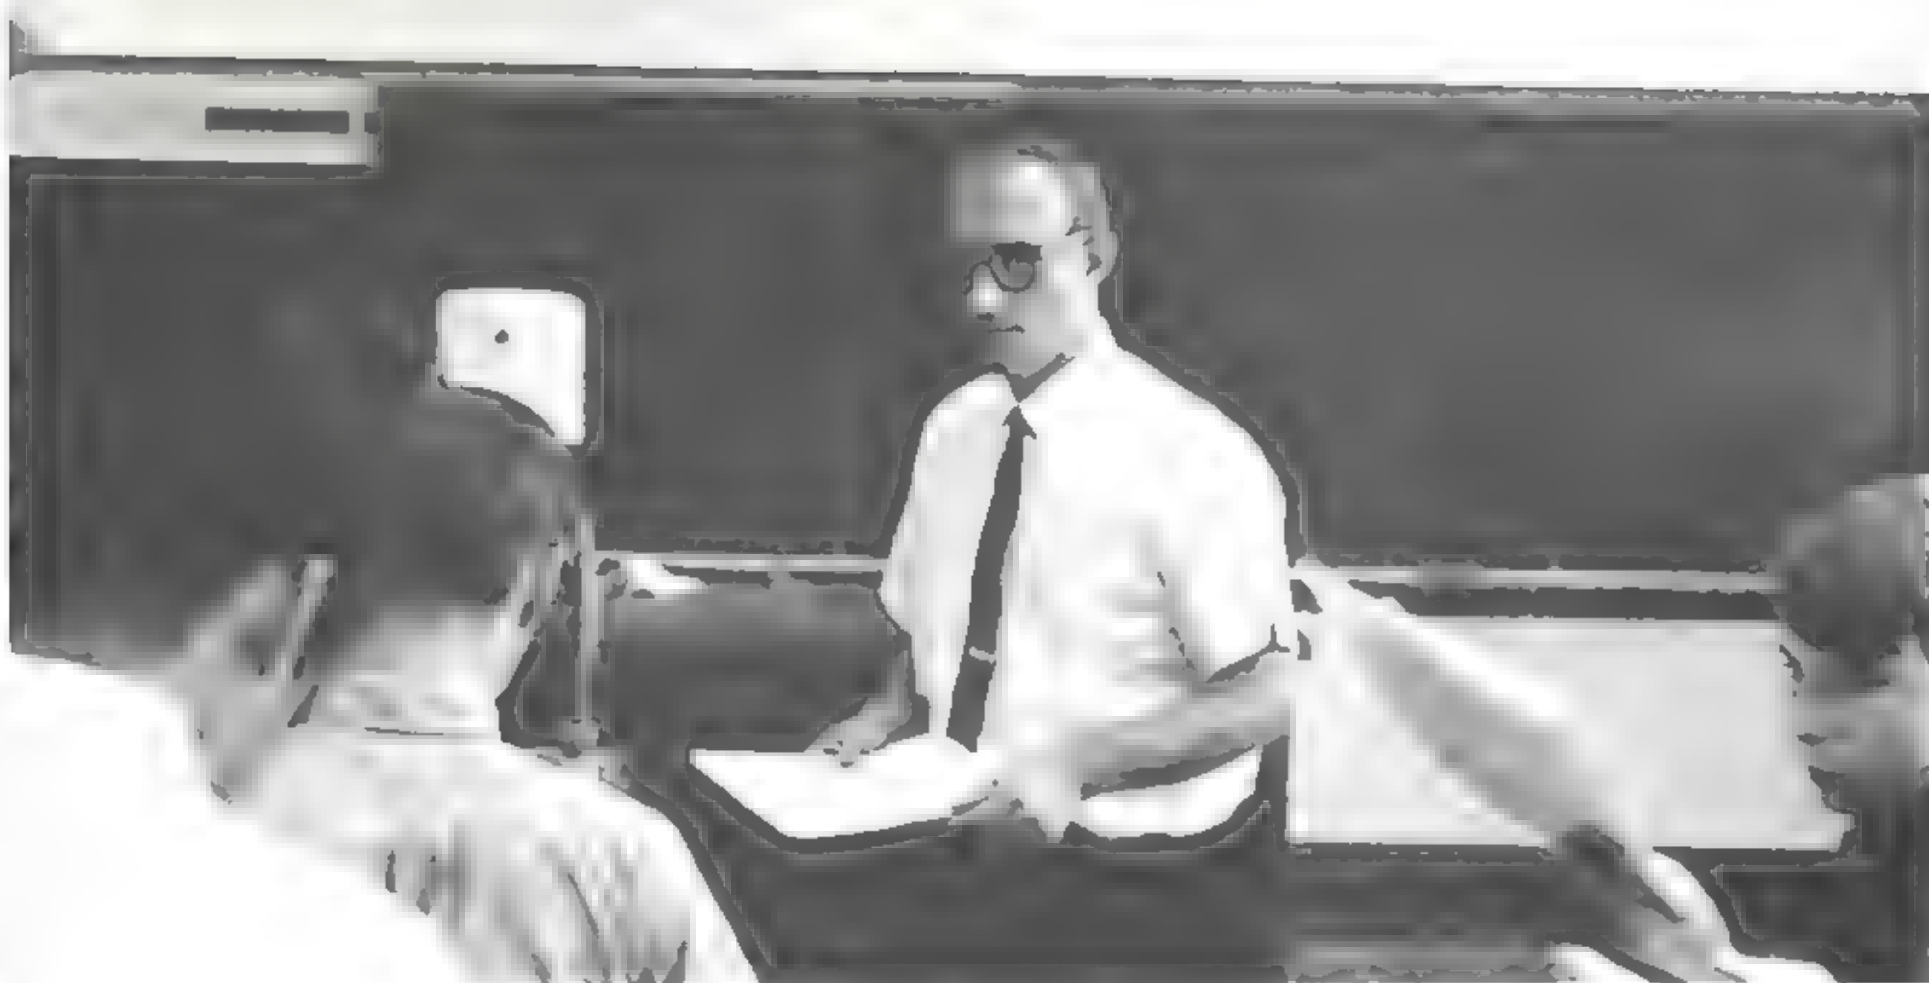

The Study of mathematics is a vital part of any high school curriculum. Central's juniors receive their share of mathematical training.

Most of the juniors are taking a combined course of Algebra II and Trigonometry, taught by Bro. Harry Cornell. Algebra II examines the practical and theoretical applications of Algebra I and also shows the interrelationship of Algebra and Geometry. The students learn to use the proof methods and graphing techniques taught in Geometry in working Algebra. The Juniors of Central Catholic are aiming at College. Mathematics is a vital part of their preparation.

Brother Cornell prepares for next class.

Brother Joseph Maly teaches Chemistry to all Juniors

Method and Theory Is Chem. Science

Brother Joe, Chem. Dept. head, instructs with slide rule.

The Chemistry Department, headed by Bro. Joseph Maly develops and broadens the understanding of the students not only in Chemistry but also in all the sciences. This course develops the student's ability to analyze and solve problems of a chemical nature.

Another goal of this course is to make the student think logically. This will enable him to easily find solutions to daily problems.

The Chemistry course taught at Central Catholic is so designed that a person taking college-level work in that field will have a firm basis on which to build. In establishing this firm basis, the student is not only given the fundamentals and the theories of chemistry, but he is also enabled to learn by doing through experimentation in the lab.

The American Tradition Is Examined

Brother Ralph Schnitzer teaches American History to the Juniors.

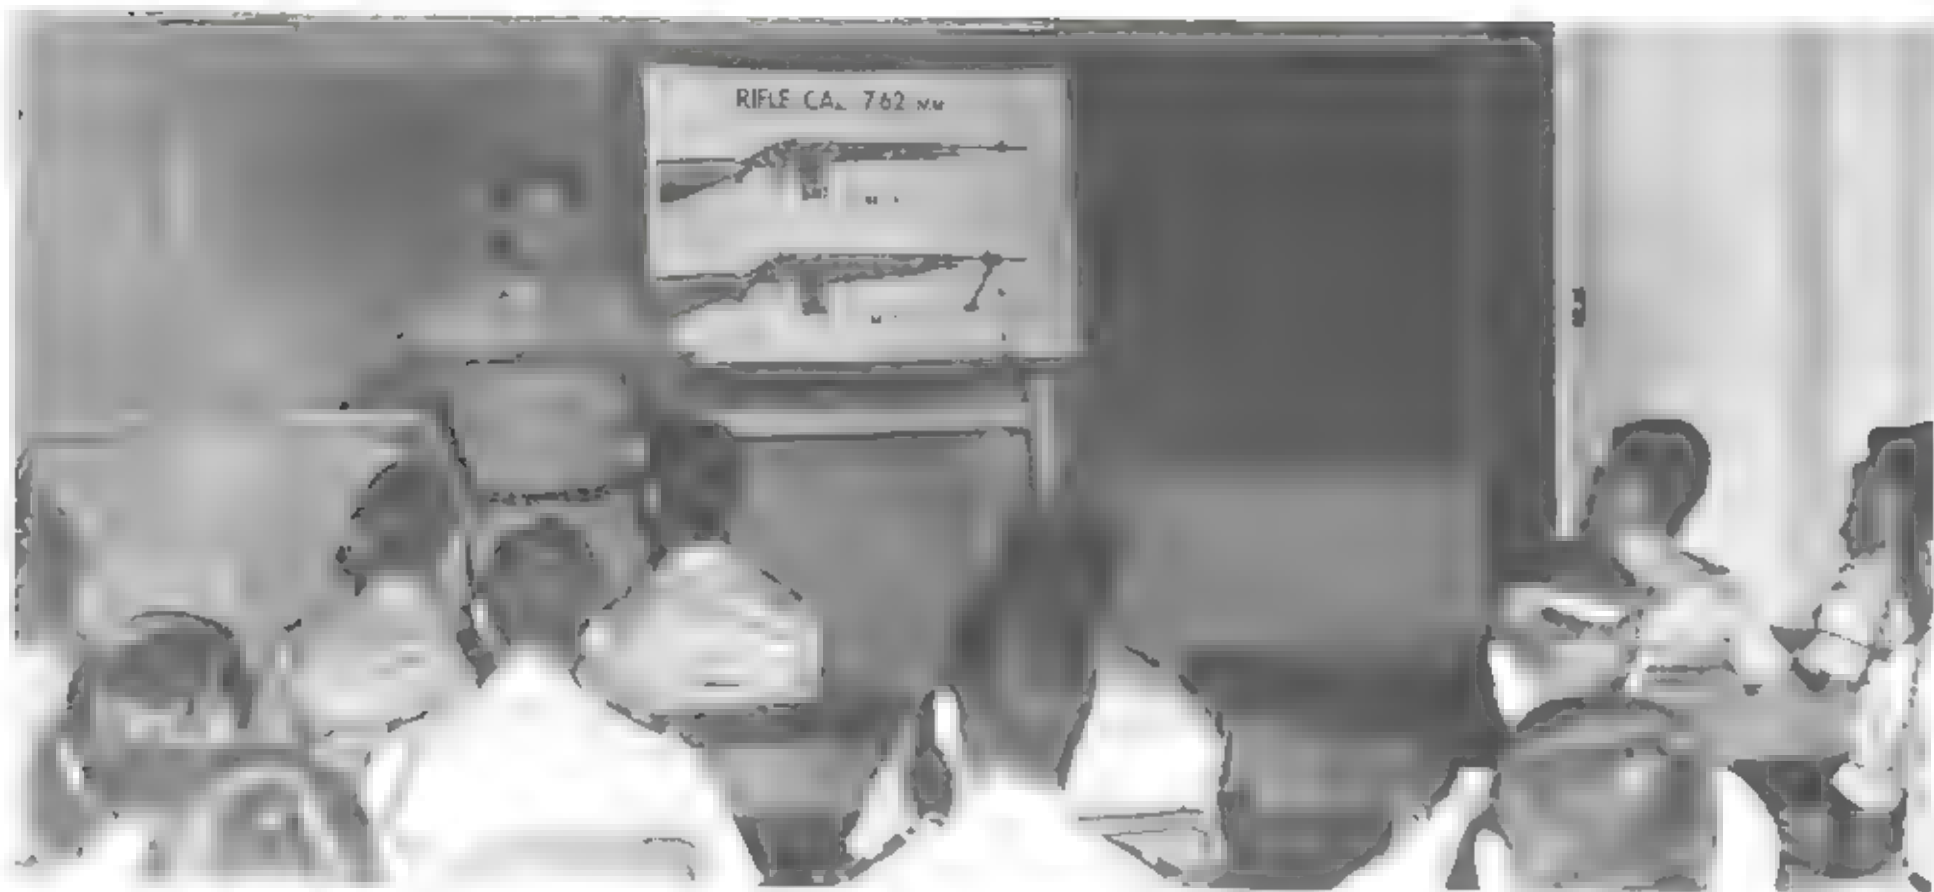

Bro. Ralph tells of Revolutionary battles in the U.S

After completing two years of study at Central, the Junior Class has felt the significance of being members of its student body. But, particularly this year, they have come to appreciate what it is to be a citizen of the United States.

The student of American History receives a solid basis for thought and action. Through the knowledge of history, an American can serve his country intelligently. Knowledge of these experiences reveals the realities and ideals which all Americans share.

The Junior learns how to interpret his nation's democratic ideals. He grows patriotically and decides if his country is worth dying for on the battlefield.

There is a certain something that a school must have in order to achieve greatness. This certain something is spirit. At Central, spirit is embedded within each student. It is the unifying agent that has made our school stand out from all other schools.

The Junior class was filled with spirit this year. The ranks of Central's varsity football, basketball, baseball and drill teams were filled with Juniors. The Juniors were represented equally as well in Central's other extracurriculars which included the "Fang" staff, Speech and Chess Clubs. The many other organizations at Central were also packed with Junior students. As a chinker in testimony of junior spirit, count the faces of all the juniors in Central's Booster Club.

Larry Lopez discusses "logos" with Bob Allwine during Central's Coffee House.

This year an entirely new event appeared at Central, a coffee house. It was held on September 29, in the school cafeteria.

The special committee in charge of the coffee house prepared the cafeteria for the event by filling it with card tables. Each card table was draped with a checkered table cloth and had a candle placed on it.

Folk music provided by several groups completed the atmosphere. The groups which participated were the Central Octet, Mike and Jerry, and Sherry and Gale. Soloists from the Ichthus Coffee House also entertained. They were Carol Cisneros, Bob Allwine, and John Ramier.

The main facet of the coffee house was the logos. This is a session in which the floor is open to discussion, and everyone is invited to state their opinions. Father Search, of St. Mary's University, led the discussion on dating and love.

The large turnout and great success of the coffee house spoke well for the Juniors who sponsored the activity under the leadership of their Homeroom Representatives. The Juniors were aided by Mr. Enderle who did much to help in preparing for the event.

The success of the coffee house was a sign of unity for the Juniors, and of the great 1967-68 school year Central would have.

Juniors' Interests Are Not Confined to Studies.

Headed by John Flume and Bob Saunders, the intramural program at Central is designed to provide the students who are unable to participate in the various organized sports, a chance to exercise and have fun. It also instills a strong competitive spirit between the homerooms.

Each homeroom competes against the other homerooms in its division in volleyball, touch football, and basketball. The leading homeroom in each division advances to the semi-finals, with the freshman winners playing the sophomore champs and the winning junior homeroom taking on the senior victors. The winners of these games meet to decide the school championship.

In addition to the regular intermural activities after school, an all-star volleyball team, composed of the outstanding Central players, engaged in friendly competition with the girls from Incarnate Word and Ursuline High Schools.

Juniors Discover Obstacles . . .

This year's Juniors have a vast frontier to look forward to in their senior year. They will have to make choices that will probably affect them for the rest of their lives. It is up to this year's Juniors to take over the reigns and continue to improve the spirit of leadership left them as the Seniors of '68-'69.

Leadership, the kind that has a positive effect on others, is one of the most important traits that this year's Juniors cultivates. Their responsibility injects into the school the dynamic leadership essential in uniting all the students in attaining a workable, productive school year. They will be heads of the organizations and the success of the organizations will be measured by their leadership and productivity.

One of the most important traits required of the complete senior is responsibility. Responsibility is developed throughout the high school years. Consequently, the high school student seriously begins to assume more responsibility in his junior year. Having become an upperclassman, the Junior experiences new rights and privileges. But with these come the responsibilities of serious work. The Juniors at Central Catholic respond well, and work and participate in many different school organizations. The Booster Club and the Honor Guard are two of the activities in which the Juniors are demonstrating their acceptance of responsibilities. It remains for them to inject this spirit into the Senior year of '68-'69.

Unlike the preceding year, the Sophomore year is a decisive period in which the underclassmen goes through a great change. It is during this course of time that the Sophomore decides if he is adapting himself for the betterment of high school life.

The sophomore has become accustomed to the evolving student life at Central Catholic. He has learned how to adjust himself to the fine and colorful tradition which is offered here. Sophomores have mainly seen and will continue to witness the tremendous needs for a well-rounded high school education, which is being demanded by today's society.

Religion Evaluated As Commitment

Brother Travis's class makes frescoes on the roof.

The Sophomores at Central are taught Religion by Brother Travis and Father Wolk. In this course emphasis is placed on religious commitment. The purpose is to present the student with a background for his religion. By doing so, the sophomore becomes aware of the importance of his religion in the modern world.

These classes are given various projects during the year in which they can express themselves. A few classes are taught how to make frescoes. From this they can express their ideas in "pieces of art." All of the classes are given the opportunity to plan and execute a Mass.

Brother Travis teaches Religion to the sophomores.

Sophs See the Miracle of Language

Mr. Kenneth Kline teaches English II and III. He also moderates the Speech Team.

Bro. W. Lehan teaches English I & II; moderates intramurals.

The Sophomore English classes, taught by Mr. Kline and Brother Lehan, cover a variety of material during the school year. The two teachers read and discuss four plays in their classes, including Shakespeare's JULIUS CAESAR and RICHARD THE THIRD, and Rostand's CYRANO DE BERGERAC, Socrates's OEDIPUS REX, and Dicken's historical novel TALE OF TWO CITIES are also taken during the year.

In the second semester, each student gives a three-minute shocker speech. The purpose of this is to test each student's ability to write a speech on any variety of subjects; then present the speech to his class. The best speakers of each room are chosen and compete against each other for the division championship.

Most of the Class of '70 study the fundamentals of plane geometry for their Sophomore math course. This course, taught by Bros. G. DeMoor & J. Krus, consists of the basic ideas, definitions, and methods involved in plane geometry. The students learn how to graph and how to apply their knowledge in proving theorems.

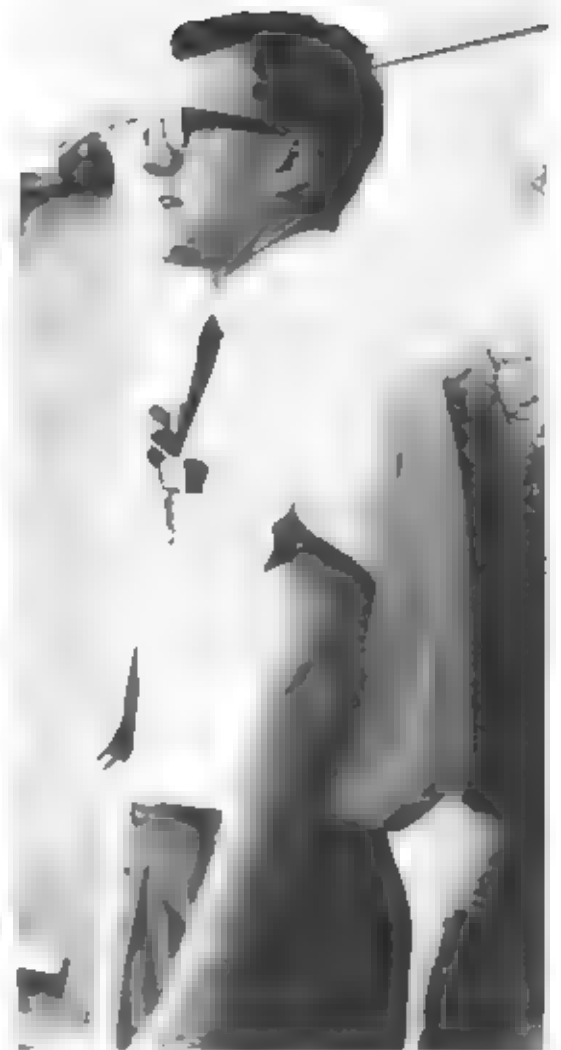

A small group of the sophomores are in an advanced class. They are taking Algebra II and Trigonometry, which is usually offered as a Junior course. They are able to take advanced math because they study geometry during the summer. Their teacher is Bro. Harry Cornell.

World History, taught by Mr. Molberg and Mr. Fandel, is concerned with people and events from the earliest cavemen to the present.

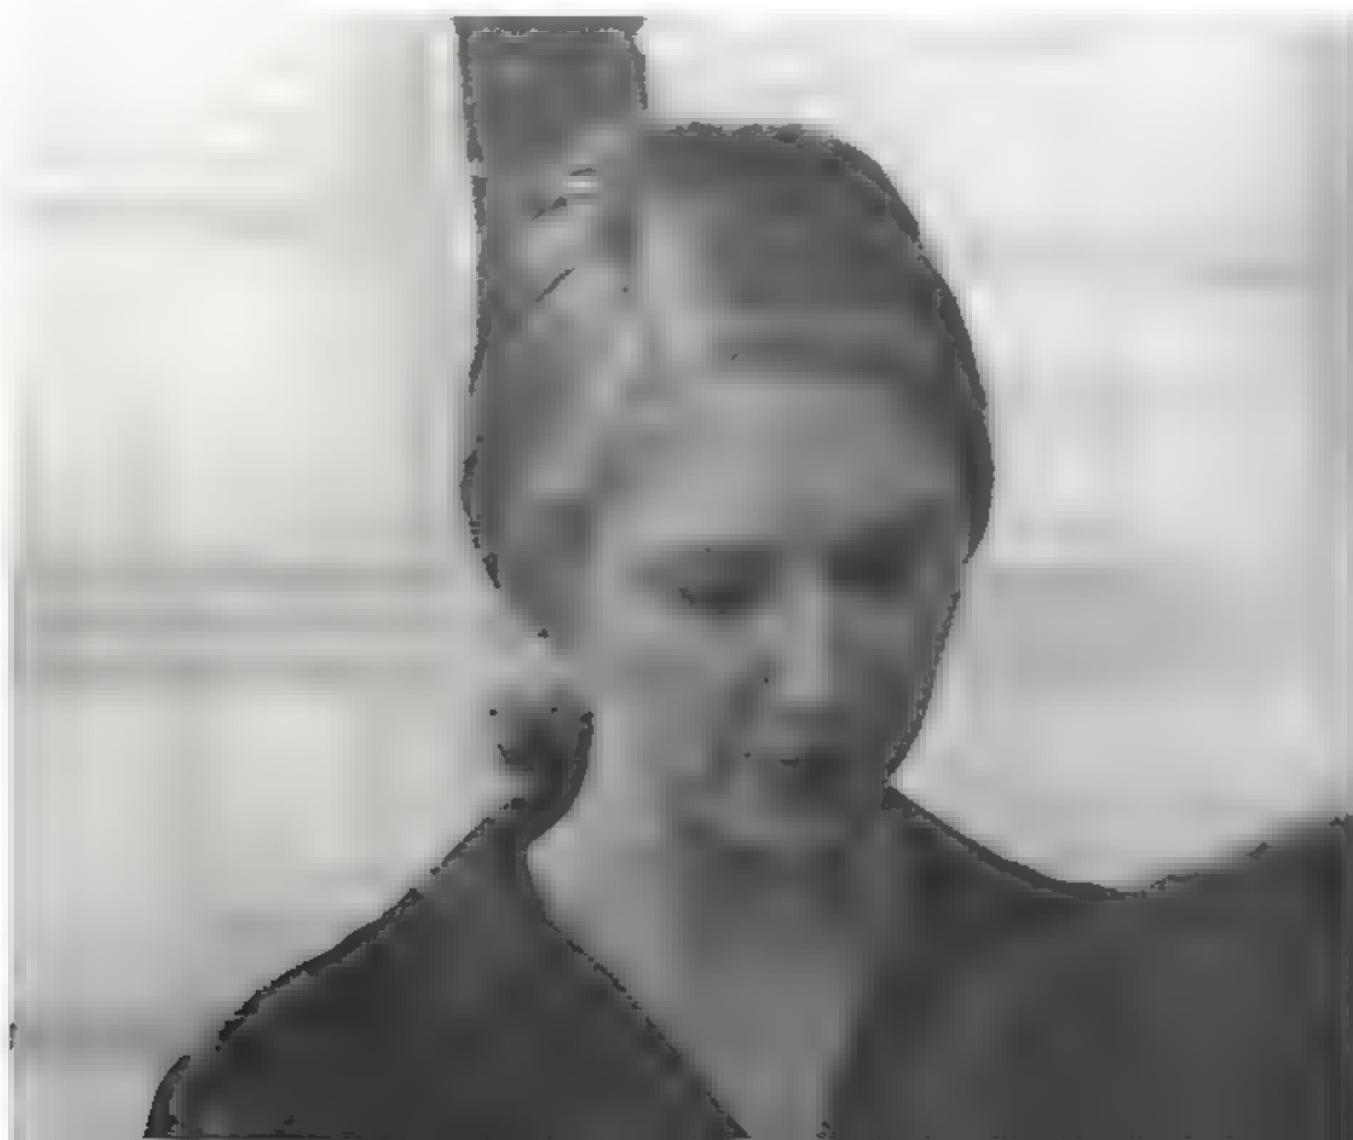

A variety of material is used to teach the subject, with the main source being the World History textbook by Boak; this is supplemented by Life magazine, New York Times' filmstrips, and current events bulletins. Also, several times during the year, each student is called upon to give an oral report on a subject related to the topic being covered at that time, using the materials of the library and other references.

Brother A. Wurzel teaches Spanish I, II, and III.

Foreign Languages Enrich Our Own

Central's lady teacher, Miss Margaret Reeves, teaches Spanish II.

During his second year at Central, the student generally completes his study of a foreign language. After learning the basics during his Freshman year of what seems to be an impossible language, he now begins to study the fine points and technicalities. Perhaps it is during this time that he begins to appreciate his own language.

One main reason for the second year of a language is that it completes the college requirement of two years of a foreign language.

The sophomores take the second year of either Latin or Spanish, having made their original choice between the two in the Freshman year.

Teaching Spanish to Sophomores is Miss Margaret Reeves. Miss Reeves comes to us from Peru where she taught Spanish.

Teaching Spanish I, II, III we have Brother A. Wurzel.

R.O.T.C. Challenges Sophs

Since 1932, the Junior R.O.T.C. unit has been a colorful part of Central Catholic's history. Since that time, the Corps has earned the reputation of being one of the finest examples of leadership throughout the Fourth U.S. Army Area. This year's sophomore military class, instructed by M/Sgt. Despault, is designed to prepare the MT. II cadets for future leadership positions.

Besides learning the basic ideas of leadership, the sophomore gains a high degree of self discipline and patriotism, qualities necessary to make him a well-rounded person. In the class room, the second year military student receives instruction on such subjects as Map Reading and Small Unit Tactics. This training develops the student's sense of responsibility, alertness, and success, all important indications of a good leader.

The transition from Freshmen to Sophomore provides many problems for every high school student. The Sophomore is definitely above Freshmen and he wishes to show it. He has taken the first step on the way to becoming an upperclassman. He eagerly awaits the coming of May so that he may call himself a Junior. The Sophomore years seems to be endlessly long, it is the hardest year for many people. The Sophomore realizes that he has a responsibility to help the Freshman. The Sophomore is able to recall the difficulties encountered by a Freshman more easily than an upperclassman. He is adapted to the way of life at Central. For this reason, they do their best to aid the Freshmen to adjust. In this way, the Sophomore does a great service to himself, the Freshman and the whole school.

It is often remarked that the world of the Sophomore differs greatly from the worlds of the Junior and Senior. In understanding the difference, one has to become familiar to what a sophomore is.

After completing one year of study at Central, the sophomore is just starting to take his place in school. He has become acquainted with the operations of the various colorful school organizations. The sophomore is anxious to make friends and consult with the upperclassmen to get their opinions on real school life. It is during this year that the sophomore completely adjusts himself to his surroundings and adapts himself to what is known as studying. During this period he must make the decision of whether or not he is going to the best of his ability, making use of the well-rounded education which Central is providing for him.

The sophomore, above all, learns to conform to the traditions of Central Catholic. He is clever in convincing himself that this year is an important one, and is a decisive part in his choice of a profession best adapted to the fulfillment of his goals in life.

... Enthusiasm and Interest

A. Linares and M. Tamayo consult with Brother Neugebauer

Along with the occurrences typical of any year at Central come those particular to the sophomore year. The sophomores' wonderment and awe is now only a dim memory of freshman year; the mystery and charm is gone, but the confusion remains. The mad scramble at lunch, the horror of dropping books on the stairs at change of class, and the hushed silence at the announcement of a pop test add to the hectic whirl of the sophomore year.

The Greeks defined a "sophomore" to be pretentious, and through the centuries this label has been used to collectively define those in their second year of high school. The years, however, have changed the meaning. A sophomore is between the novelty of freshman year and the excitement of graduation, between "Fish" and upperclassman. Work seems more difficult and studying less appealing. But good times and exciting "happenings" do occur—first car, and a whirlpool of games and dances.

The Sophomore is that individual who has made that transition from the confusion of the freshman year to the awareness of his second year of high school. Over the period of one year he has become accustomed with Central Catholic. By his sophomore year, the Central student has adapted to the demands of academic studies.

The diligence of the student is indicative of his efforts in class. Likewise, the sophomore exemplifies his interest in his school by the activities in which he participates. By contributing some of his time and effort, the sophomore builds a stronger school.

There are two years remaining for the sophomore to complete his high school education, he sets his goals now and strives to attain them.

New Church in Salvation History

Brother Buechner teaches Religion 1, and is assistant "C" team football coach

Freshman religion, taught by both Father Sargent and Brother Buechner, is a course dealing in the principles and bases of religion. This course studies the Bible to discover how God is saving us today and how we should respond. The freshman student studies the philosophy and attitudes of Abraham, Moses, the Prophets. So he can learn to follow the basic philosophy found in the Bible, the Freshman fulfills the purpose of this course—that of responding to the will of God.

The freshman religion course gives the student a general foundation for his religion. The next three years of religion are based on this philosophy and the study of how it can be applied to our lives.

The religion course taught in the freshman year is the very basis on which the student will build for the rest of his life. Every following religion course revolves around the background received in the freshman year.

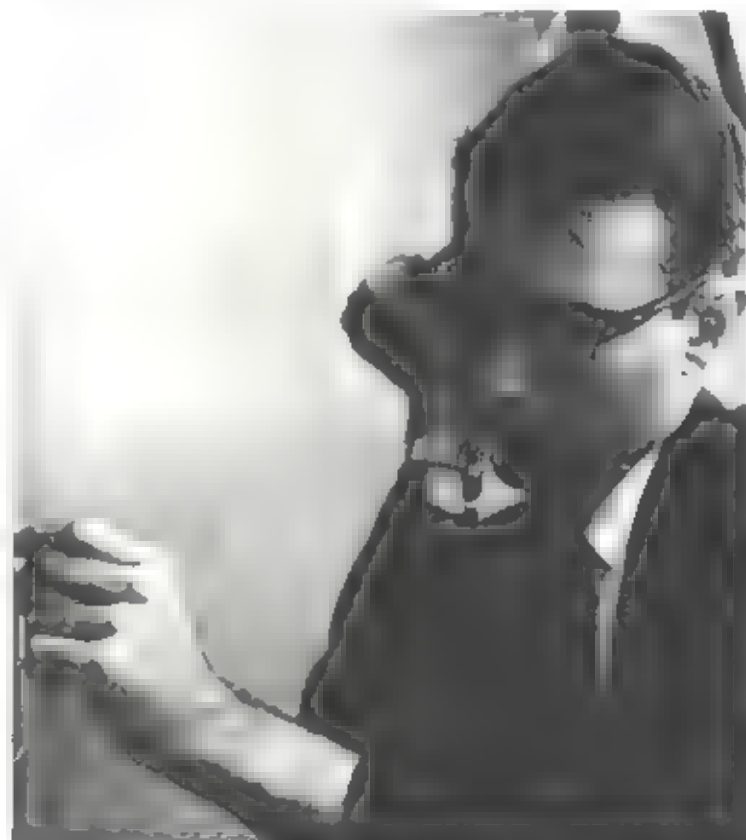

Father Sargent as well as teaching Religion 1, is the Director of the Community.

Brother Gerald Jines teaches English I.

Brother Jines is also the moderator of the Photography Staff and the Yearbook staff.

Upon entering Central Catholic, the freshman finds himself studying English from a different point of view than the one he experienced a year ago. He no longer is worried about conjugating a verb or diagraming a sentence. Instead he is introduced to the technical aspects of literature and is shown several devices used by a writer in conveying his ideas.

The principal goals of the freshman English program are to initiate the student to the habit of good reading and the basics of correct writing.

New Approach to English for Frosh

Freshmen break up into discussion groups to exchange ideas.

Freshmen Grouped in Modern Math

Mr. Valek teaches Math I and is assistant Varsity football coach. He also coaches Frosh Football and track.

Freshmen soon learn that Algebra I is quite a change from grade school math.

Central's freshmen are following the tradition of preparing for college. The study of mathematics plays a vital part in this preparation. All the freshmen begin their high school math with Algebra I. Brother Harry Cornell and Mr. Tony Valek have the task of teaching Algebra to the frosh, many of whom had never had math other than arithmetic.

In Algebra I, the freshmen receives an introduction into higher mathematics. They study the basic theories and method of practical math and are shown some of the ideas behind higher mathematics. Central's freshmen build the groundwork for college math.

Spanish and Latin

The freshman Centralites have a choice of two languages—Spanish and Latin. This is because many colleges require at least two years of foreign language and Central does its best to provide this for its students.

The language systems taught here at Central are also important because the student obtains a greater understanding of his own English language. This is because so much English is based on Spanish and Latin.

The objective of Spanish and Latin is to make the student think differently. Because these languages are based on definite forms and rules, the student must form the words of the language and think in a logical manner.

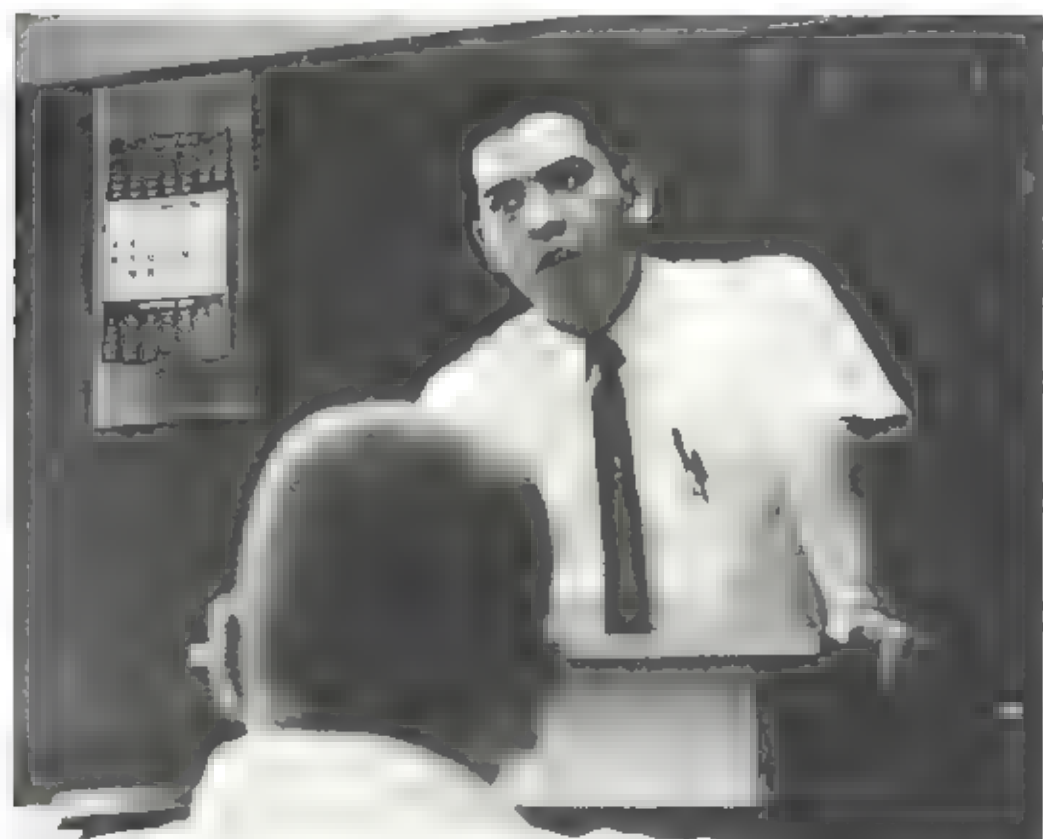

Brother Matthias Kessel teaches Spanish I and moderates the Bowling Team.

Brother Louis Neugebauer teaches Latin I and II.

B.S.C.S. Plan Used

Mr. A. Galvan teaches Biology and coaches "B" team basketball, ass't. football and golf.

Mr. Bordelon interests class with specimen.

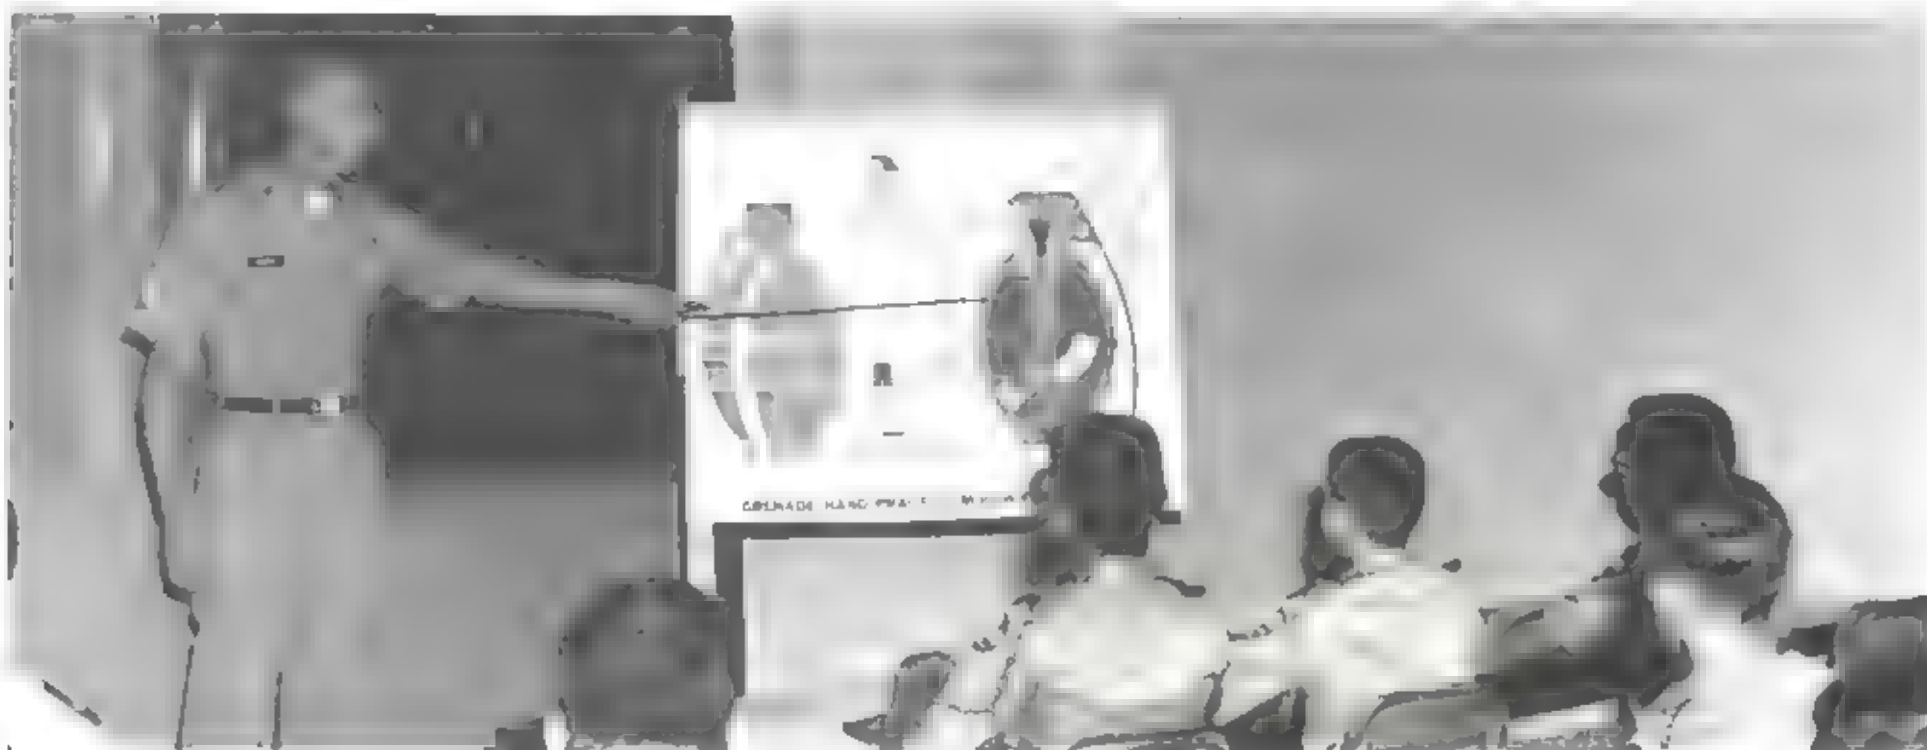

Mr. R. Bordelon heads the Biology Department and is the head football coach.

Biology, a course taught to the freshmen at Central, gives the student an idea of what the field of science is like. This course, taught by Mr. Bordelon and Mr. Galvan, not only prepares the Centralite for further study in the field of biology but also teaches the student to analyze and record information which is important in any field of science. Even if the student does not go into a field of science he appreciates the value of science.

The goal of the biology course at Central is to give the students a sound background in both theoretical and practical biology. The hope of the course is to develop and maintain interest in the student.

Sgt. James Ramey teaches Military I and moderates the Lloyd Rifles.

Sgt. Shurtleff is Administrative NCO

Cadet Martinez instructs a Frosh Platoon.

Freshmen at Central are introduced to Military Life before school starts when they pick up their uniforms. When school starts, during the two hour drill periods, they learn the basic forms of military drill. They are introduced to weapons and marksmanship, study military history, and learn how to act as courteous military cadets.

A number of the more outstanding cadets comprise the Loyd Rifles, the freshman drill team. These drill for several hours a day to develop perfect drill techniques. Under the direction of Cadet Richard Tarrillion, the Loyd Rifles have shown great promise and great school spirit.

Freshman Transition

The freshman is the product of eight years of grammar school, eight years of being pampered, spoonfed, and free of responsibility. What bitter medicine he receives upon entering high school! The gap between eighth grade and the freshman year must seem as wide as the Grand Canyon.

The freshman year is a year of adjustment. The incoming freshman cannot expect to receive any more motherly or rather brotherly care. From here on out the student is on his own. It is now that he is the confused "fish" must adapt to the rigors of high school life, applying himself to the fullest of his capacity.

Frosh Give Good Effort

The freshman class is the largest division this year. These young Centralites are certainly showing their concern for their school. They have turned out an undefeated season in football and the frosh have been well represented in all activities. They have been well represented at all school functions and have constantly been ranked near the top in all school drives. Because of all that the freshmen have accomplished this year, all succeeding freshman classes should be eager to equal or top them.

If the next three freshman classes are as ambitious as this year's freshmen are, Central will continue to have outstanding years, both academically and athletically.

Freshman Tradition

Each year a new group of students enter Central Catholic High School. Young, active, and witty these students may at first be astounded by high school life and the many responsibilities that come with it. The Freshman's primary responsibility is to make himself the best individual possible. Of course in order to successfully accept this responsibility the freshman must also fulfill his responsibilities to his school and to others. At Central it has almost become tradition for the freshmen to support and participate in school activities to their fullest. There are enough choices at Central for each student to enroll in at least one extracurricular. Each time that one of these new students successfully fulfills one of his responsibilities it is a movement towards adulthood. The ability to accept responsibilities indicates maturity; that is the purpose of Central Catholic, to make each student a responsible adult.

The class of 1971 made the molds for its destiny. At first they were somewhat skeptical, but as the weeks rolled by they started to develop a certain amount of confidence. By their observance of the upperclassmen, they soon saw what was happening and what their part was to be. They picked able leaders to represent themselves in the Student Council.

They soon proved themselves in their great football season. Their participation in other extracurriculars gave them the experience they needed to change from the eighth graders of 1967 to the Central freshmen of 1968.

Marty Ynmann leads half time performance at football games.

The director comes into the Band room, but does not get on the podium. Walking through to his office, the band officers call the band to attention and announce the agenda for the practice. When everyone is seated and ready, Brother Martens comes to the front of the band and raises his baton to begin "Lawrence of Arabia." The clarinets are off this morning. Fearful frowns.

The band stops on signal. And listens to the effort the section makes to play correctly, with everybody listening. Correcting the mistake, the band starts over, and plays to finish. Each day, each piece, is practice, practice, perfection.

Brother Martens conducts a practice session in the band room.

THE BAND A Matter of Pride and Joy

The four lovely girls that lead the Central Band through every parade carrying the banner that bears the name of our proud school are the Banner Girls. These girls are selected through competition, from the various girl's high schools around San Antonio. The four are:

Nancy Fuchs, Carol Cisneros, Patsy Lozano, and Sherry Bessan.

 BAND DIRECTOR

 DR. M. MAJOR
 Marty Ynman

This year's Button Band commander is senior David Dennis. He is responsible for the entire band's accomplishments.

George Harrientos, the personnel officer, takes charge of all things concerning people. This includes inspections and writing the half-time show material for the football games.

The Concert Master, Roger Benavides, holds the responsibility of writing the various concerts he is doing and the year after that. He decides also what music will be played at the half-time shows.

In the Sergeant Major spot is Joe Schwegmann. Joe keeps all the records of band activities including summer practice.

Button Band & Officers

Here is how the Button Band officers prepare for a parade such as the Flambeau. The Personnel Officer checks the band roster to find the number of members going to plan the parade formation, and decides on a six man front. Marching in the street during CCIS is continued on Tuesday and Thursday — get the band endurance level up, or the miles of parade. Next the Supply Officer makes sure helmets are painted or polished, then passes out music (buying more if needed). He rigs batteries and lights for each man and issues them for the night parade.

The Concert Master (this year, senior band commander) makes sure outside practice is done on march music, since the band practices concert pieces in regular sessions, usually. The Band or march checks each responsibility of these men to make sure the duties are performed well and on time. The Personnel Officer gets the three section leaders together and solves the problems of time and place for band assembly, and transportation. Finally, the band arrives and assembles. The Drum Major whistles, and the band marches off into the torch-lit parade.

Trophy for Best Drum Major in the State was awarded to Marty Ynmann.

Marching Band

Half time performances require practice, practice, practice.

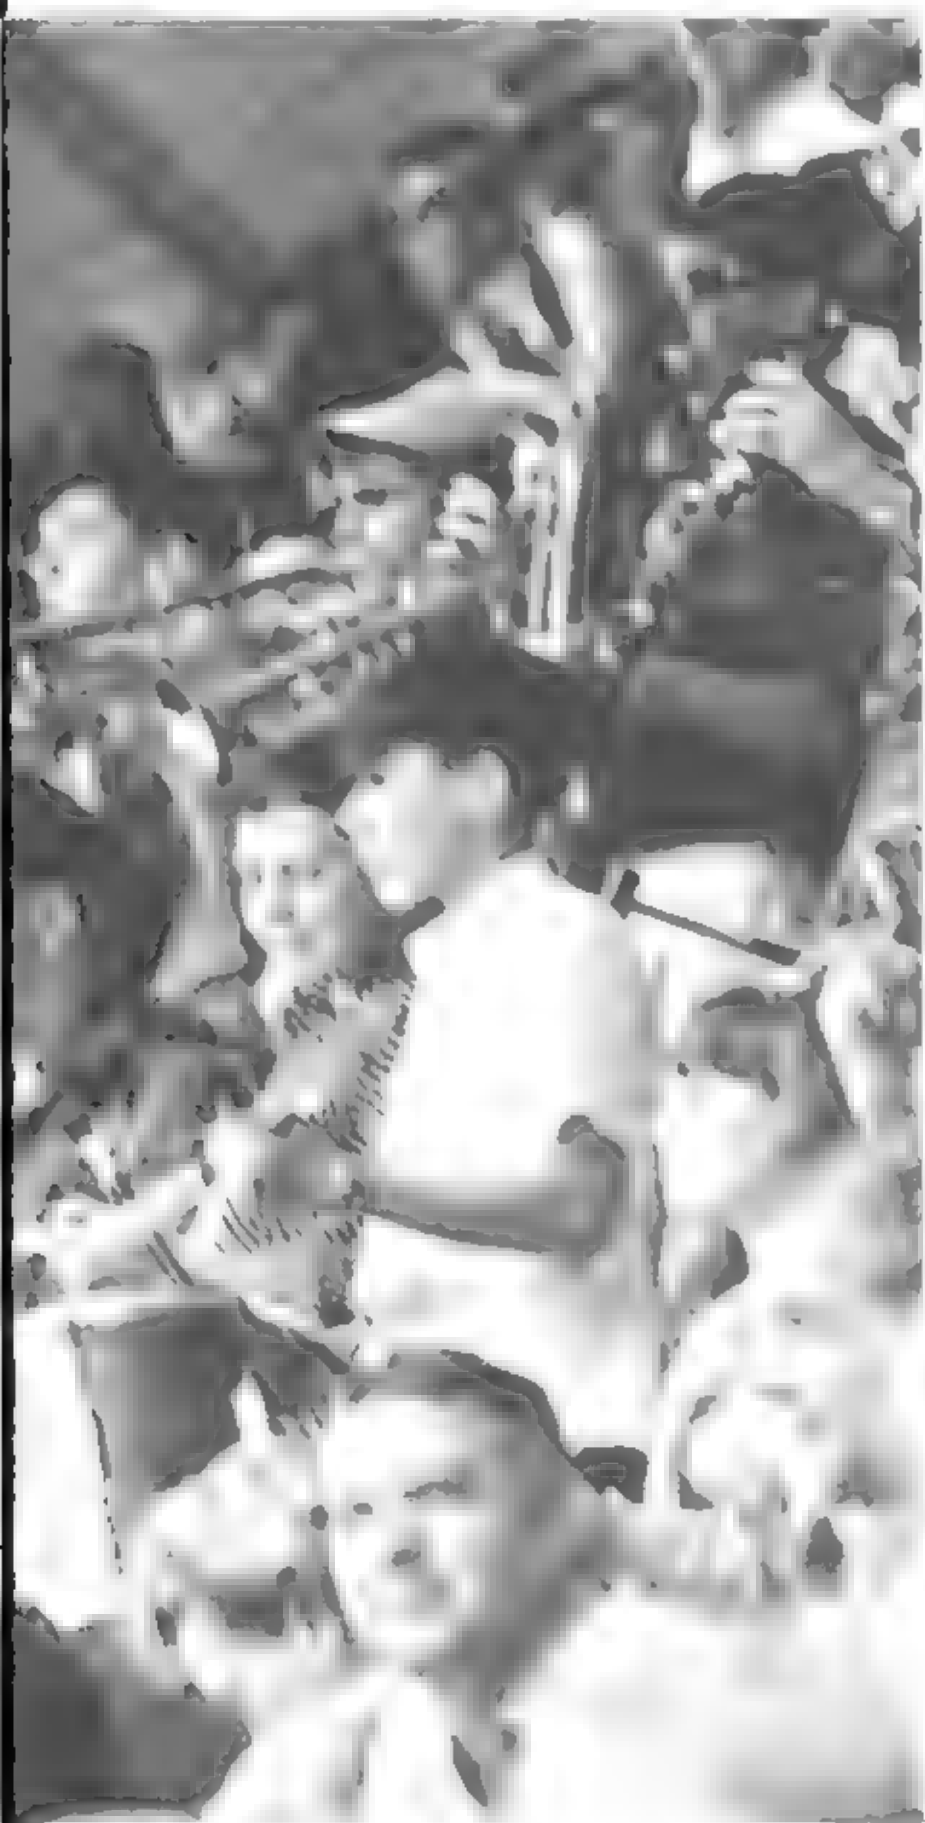

This year the Central Band has seventy-four members, made up of sixteen seniors, ten juniors, twenty sophomores, and twenty-five freshmen. The other three members came from across the street, from Providence.

Every band member practiced from 7:30 to 8:00 each morning and from 2:00 to 3:00 in the afternoon. Of course this is not the end of practice, for the band member practices at home too. During the band members first two years he receives over seventy lessons.

At the piano, directing the Glee club is the moderator of the club, Brother Martens.

The Glee Club is the oldest co-ed institution in school. The girls and fellows sing two concerts a year at Central, with an occasional outside performance such as caroling at North Star Mall.

Bro. Martens, the director, and the glee club practice twice a week in the evenings, Wednesday and Sunday, from 7:30 to 9:00 PM. Whether the song was a stereo-effect "Silent Night" classic, or a pop song like "Born Free," the glee club gave the tunes fresh treatment.

Carol Cisneros, Dan DeReimer, Georgiana Lupiba, and Pat Galloway soloed during some songs. Other members of the glee club put together special acts to highlight the music.

On December 20, the Glee Club gave a concert at North Star Mall. The program consisted of Christmas music, familiar and not so familiar. Some of the songs done were "Lo how a Rose", "Drummer Boy", "O Come All Ye Faithful", and "Silent Night". The Octet did a song called "The Virgin Mary". Following the concert, a party for the members of the Glee Club was given at school. Music was furnished by the 16th String Velocity.

Central's Octet is unusual when it has eight members. Usually there are ten or more singers. Auggie Cisneros, a student at St. Mary's U., rehearses the group. Folk music is the emphasis of the Octet. Especially, Carol Cisneros, who sings regularly at Coffee Houses throughout the city.

The people of the Octet are usually the more talented singers of the Glee Club. But every one in the Octet is a voice specialist, a senior in music instruction, and indeed a good performer.

Central students have always enjoyed attending dances of all kinds. They owe a debt of gratitude to Central's dance committee that spent many hours of careful planning and decorating to make sure that Central students enjoy each of the school sponsored dances. Under the direction of Bro. Harry Cornell, the dance committee designs decorations, arranges lighting and contacts bands. This year, the juniors and seniors of the dance committee worked hard preparing our activities.

1967-1968 Student Council Officers: Darby Riley, president; John Hierholzer, vice-president; Robert Dunphy, secretary; Roger Martinez, treasurer; and Mike Hrncir, parliamentarian

The "Spirit Be Great in '68" attitude of this year has really been formulated in this year's Student Council. A good Student Council forms the basis of leadership, pride, spirit, and responsibility. These goals have been notable every day throughout the halls of Central. An organization which leads the school and produces school leaders has the task of setting the example for the entire student body. This task has been met by Darby Riley, president; John Hierholzer, vice-president; Bob Dunphy, secretary; Roger Martinez, treasurer; and Mike Hrncir, parliamentarian.

The Student Council was just what the name implies: these people were elected on the basis of their leadership and spirit. They had a great deal to do in making this more than a fair year.

Mothers Club

Mothers are not only important to the individual at Central. The organization called the Mothers Club fosters interest in the student body, too. Usually they are welcomed by the students during the cafeteria shifts when the club comes to sell cakes. Money from the cake sales are turned over to the school which uses the funds for scholarships.

New concepts in parent-teacher-conferences were initiated this year. Student panels discussed problems of the teens at the meetings. Joint meetings were held with the Fathers Club members, a plan which allows more interesting programs to be arranged, and both Clubs to attend. Effective cooperation between students and parents, parents and teachers, and most important, students and teachers has always been the main goal of the Mothers Club at Central.

Fathers Club

Hard work and comradery are trademarks of the Fathers Club. The service of the club to the school is remarked each year and especially when the dads rattle a car at the annual school picnic. Postman-like in sleet, wind, and rain, fathers take their stand, selling tickets on the car.

After each meeting, when the business has been taken care of, a friendly meal lets the men sit and talk; this part is usually the most enjoyable part of even a Central Father's Club meeting.

N.A.S. Expands Membership

Central Catholic's chapter of the National Honor Society is an organization of the elite Central students who have distinguished leadership, service to the school, character, and scholarship. Some prerequisites for the newly inducted member is that he must be in the upper 15% of his class, participate in at least one extracurricular activity, and he should maintain an 85 average in his studies.

This year's society, the Joseph U. Rowley chapter, renovated its organization in many respects. Concentration has been placed on closer involvement with the other societies around the city and state. An earlier induction ceremony was initiated in December, with the addition of five sophomore provisional members coming in May.

As a further service to the school, the National Honor Society introduced a tutoring service extended to all students. Thus the National Honor Society manifests its usefulness as a productive organization of Central Catholics.

ANTHOLOGY

An anthology is a collection of works by an author, on a certain subject, or by authors of a certain time. In this case, it is a collection of the better pieces of 'Literature' by the students of Central Catholic. Central has been known for its anthology; every year the faculty receives orders from throughout the city for the collection.

This year's Anthology Staff was headed by Dan DeReimer. Other Senior members included Pat Galloway, Bill Urbine, and John Hierholzer. The Anthology covered all aspects of writing done here at Central. Each piece submitted went under careful consideration by the staff and the final approval was granted by the moderator, Brother MacMurtrey.

The backbone of the Pep—the writers.

The Central "Pep", an established organization at Central Catholic, is responsible for the publication of news throughout the year. Every month, the paper is issued.

Everyone spends many hours preparing and finding information to compile and edit in the next issue. As a reporter for the school paper, the student is thrust into direct contact with the active little world that he knows and understands. Through publication activities, he becomes a moving vital force in school. He learns to observe critically, to inquire and to narrate. As a member of a team, he learns to cooperate, to serve for the joy of serving. In battle with deadlines, he learns to meet obstacles.

This year's Fang Staff, moderated by Brother Jines, tried to raise the status of Central Catholic's yearbook. Employing new techniques, such as full-color pictures and special effects, the staff tried to change the manner of presentation.

Work started back in May of last year. First, a complete reorganization of the order in which sections would follow was carried out. A separation of classes was developed, in which each division was represented by its classes, its faculty, and its people.

More modern layout designs were used, incorporating principles of photo-journalism. In general, the yearbook went under a complete reconstruction, from the introduction to the advertisement section.

One of the largest extra-curricular activities at Central is the Booster Club. Comprised of only Juniors and Seniors, the Booster Club is the center of Spirit at Central and is responsible for boosting this spirit in the student body. It conducted pep rallies and chartered busses to games. The Booster Club was also responsible for the Booster Ribbons which preceded most of our major games.

This year's club was moderated by Brother Greg DeMoor. The two co-presidents were Richard Reynolds and Bill Bauml. These two started the year with a new attraction—the booster buttons. In all, they did a great job of making 'Spirit Great in '68'.

This year a sub-division of the Booster Club was formed to spread the spirit of the Juniors and Seniors throughout the school. Under the direction of Pat Galloway, the poster committee made large creative posters for the major games. The committee was also responsible for the breakthrough banners for the football team. A new idea of Pat Galloway's was to fill a break-through banner with balloons. When the banner was broken the balloons rose and floated away. Not only were banners made for the sports team but also for other organizations, such as the Fang, the Loyd Rifles, and the Guard.

THE CHEERLEADERS

From Providence, came Senior cheerleader, Diana Nunez.

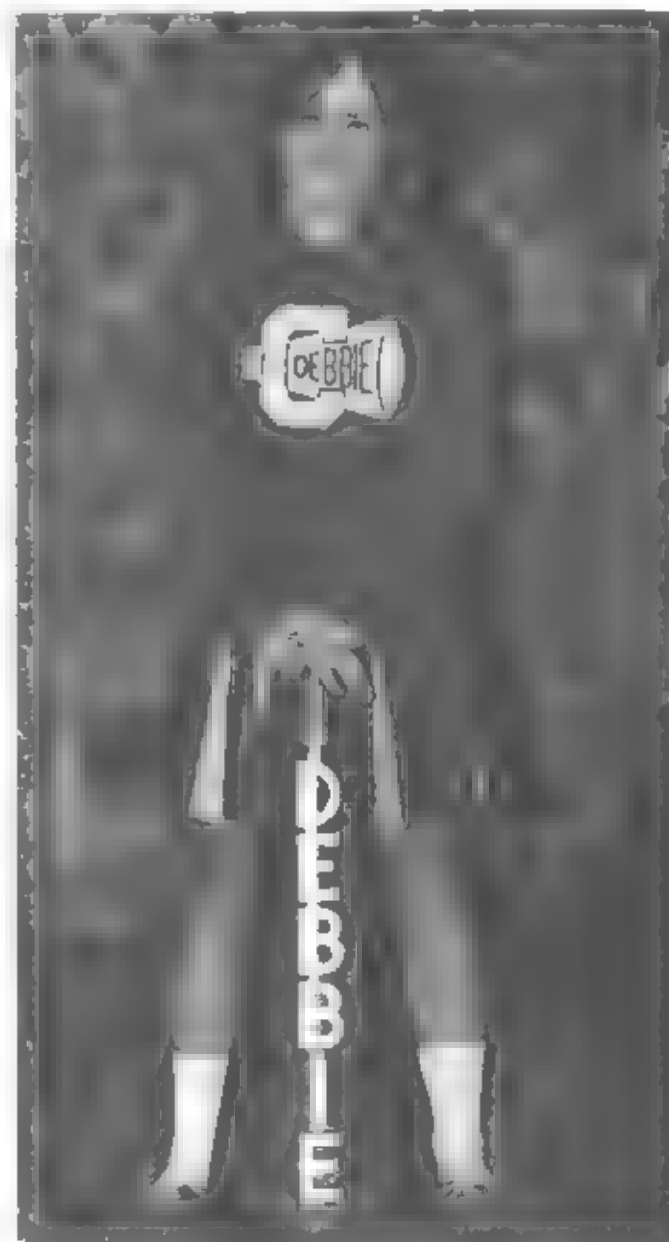

After a long process of elimination, it was finally announced that Leslie Lowrey, Linda Holbrook, Franci Narciso, and Diana Nunez would join returning Debbie Gillig and Kathy Bischoffberger to be the 1967-1968 Central Catholic Cheerleaders.

Under the leadership of Kathy, these girls showed great promise. In mid-August at a cheerleader clinic at S.M.U. they proved themselves by winning a first, a second, and a third place award in daily competition and a second place in overall performance.

When football season finally started, the student body knew just how good our cheerleaders were. They and the Button-backers cheered at football and basketball games from Edinburg to Sequin.

This year's head cheerleader, from Providence, was Kathy Bischoffberger.

From Ursuline, returning for her second year, came Debbie Gillig.

Leslie Lowrey, a Junior from Ursuline, was also this year's Homecoming Queen.

In the past, the strength of the club rested in a few people, who were prepared in a few areas of public speaking. This year, however, students participated not only in the usual public speaking, but also in such areas as Foreign Language presentation and Duet Acting.

The Loyd Rifles kept up a hectic schedule throughout the year. The team, made up of Freshmen, mainly, gave several performances. The Loyd Rifles participated in two competitions. The first competition was the Washington Celebration in Laredo in February. The next one was in the Flambeau Parade in April.

The Loyd Rifles, once again, gave the Guard a 'run for its money' in the Flambeau Competition. The commander and executive officer, both Seniors, started with a large group who were eager, but untrained. They have changed these Freshmen into a competitive, skillful team. The Commander of the Rifles was Cadet Lt. Col. Richard Tarrillion. The Executive Officer was Lt. Col. Richard Cuellar. Their moderators were SSGT Rainey and SSGT Shurtleff.

The Guard started its competition season earlier than ever before, traveling to Kingsville on December 9. In this competition, the Guard took first place trophies in all four categories inspection, basic, fancy, and overall. Competitions were the City Competition, the Gulf Coast Competition, the Flambeau, and the Arlington State Competition for the Fourth Army Championship. The Guard won the Fourth Army Competition nine of the past ten years.

Bordelon-Rifles

An organization which has brought great prestige and recognition to Central Catholic and its military department is the rifle team. Hours of work, before and after school, on the rifle range has produced a first-rate team.

Ever since its founding, the Bordelon Rifles have continually placed well in team and individual events. These events are constantly testing the riflemen's great ability in handling a rifle. Among the matches they attend this year are: the Texas Invitational at Austin; the Raven Competition at Huntsville; the Gulf Coast Competition at Houston; the N.R.A. Postal; and the Fourth United States Army Area Competition.

The Bordelon Rifles' record in these matches has truly proved that it consists of winners.

Students of Central are all relieved when the 3:00 PM bell rings every Friday. To most Centralites, this signifies the closing of the school week and the beginning of relaxation and leisure time over the week-end. The activities that Central students engage in over the week-end vary greatly.

There are games, parties, dances, movies, and homework to be attended to. Some students work Saturdays, and others spend their Saturdays busy at Central Games and dances take precedence on Friday and Saturday nights.

Dances were held after four of Central's football games. There was a sizeable attendance at each of these dances. In addition to these dances there were two semi-formals held. They were the Homecoming dance and the Christmas dance. Both of these dances were rendered a success by the whole student body. The Dance Committee's hard work showed itself to be worthwhile. Computer picked couples dance to music of the Chayns

The swiftly expanding field of automation invaded Central Catholic this year. On January 12, Central held the first computer dance not only in the history of the school but in the history of San Antonio. The dance came about through a collaboration of Student Council reps, Dance Committee members, Booster Clubbers, and a wide variety of fun-loving students who wanted to try something different. This event was managed by an organization known as C.U.P.I.D., the Computerized Union for the Propagation of Instant Dating.

Each entrant took a personality test to determine his or her ideal dates. The tests were fed into a computer which then turned out a list of the best matches. The participants only obligation was to meet his ideal date.

Music was provided by the Chaynes. The dance was well attended by Centralites, and girls from Providence, Ursuline, and Incarnate Word.

During this year's Homecoming Week, the school underwent a successful spirit-lifting brought about by the members of the Student Council. The success of the operation can be judged by the outstanding comments made by the faculty. Homecoming Week made it not only improbable but also impossible for there to be a lull in school spirit. The carefully planned week was tightly packed with many and varied spirit-promoting activities.

Starting the activities off on the right foot was Color Day which was scheduled for Tuesday. Wednesday's sweat-shirt-and-tennis-shoe Day may have prompted some to change the name of the school from Central Catholic to "Hippie Haven High". Thursday, the school took on a somber appearance with everyone wearing black, fore-shadowing the upcoming demise of Holy Cross. On Friday, Central was shining brightly as everyone sported blue and white during another color day. During the week, division-sponsored pep-rallies were held, beginning with the "frosh" on Tuesday and ending with the seniors on Friday. This year, a prize was offered for the best-decorated homeroom. The rooms were so elaborately decorated, that the cash prize had to be split among three homerooms.

Although we lost to Holy Cross, it cannot be said that we did not have the pride in our school and in our team to go all out for them.

This year's Homecoming Dance, climaxing a week of overflowing spirit, was yet another sign of Central's greatness. Special florescent lights, rotating mirror balls and the use of a fog machine, created the psychedelic atmosphere intended for the dance. The Dance Committee was congratulated for all the hard work and imagination which made possible this "happening".

Dr. Singer talks on the art of being a spy.

The 1967-1968 school year was highlighted by the many and varied assemblies. The assemblies varied from a visit from the San Antonio Symphony to pep rallies to wheelchair basketball.

The first assembly of the year was the freshman orientation, supervised by the members of the Student Council. The purpose of this assembly was to give the freshmen a preview of what to expect during their first year at Central. Representatives of each major activity at Central gave a brief outline of their particular organization.

Centralities at separate assemblies were privileged to hear two distinguished men: Dr. Singer and Mr. Chase.

Dr. Singer talked about how he became involved in the secret service and his adventures as a World War II American spy.

Mr. Chase demonstrated his proficiency at wheelchair basketball, while he spoke to Centralites about the history of the sport and his experiences in wheelchair Olympics.

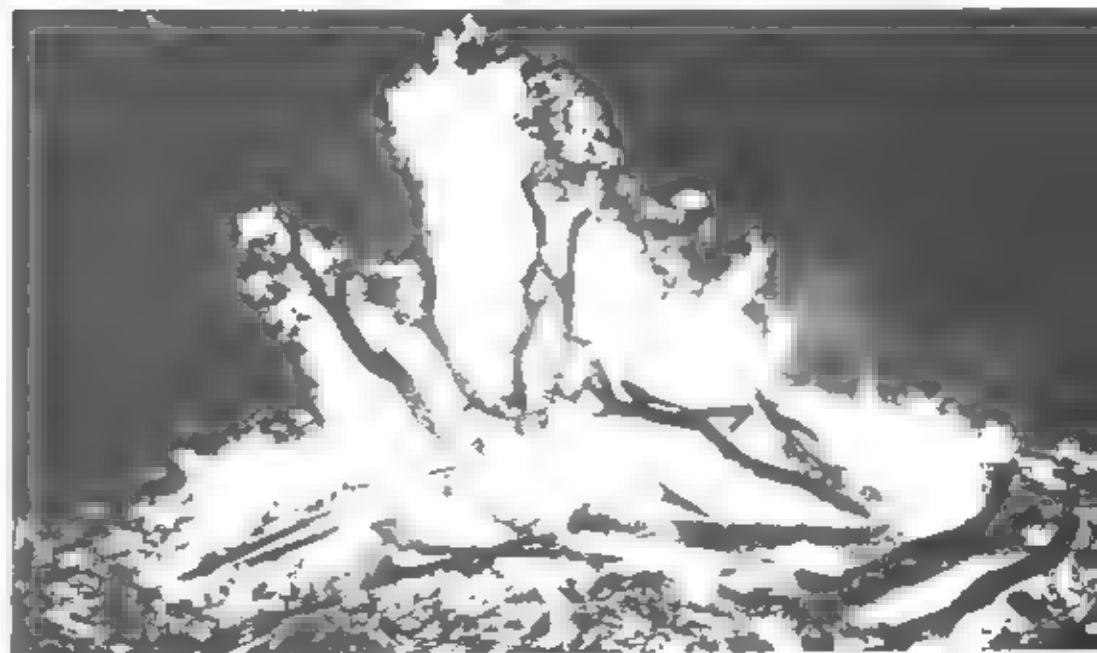

This year's San Antonio Symphony performance introduced something entirely new. For the first time in Central's history, Providence High School played host to Central's complete Student Body. Another highlight of this year's performance was the addition of 25 of Central's finest musicians to aid in the Symphony's performance for Central and Providence.

Other assemblies include the National Honor Society induction ceremony, in which new junior and senior members were accepted as members. Also, the many pep rallies throughout the year boosted the spirit for the various teams. And of course the annual Christmas assembly, which portrayed the many aspects of the lighter side of high school life, was a great success.

The success of these assemblies throughout the year helped to make Spirit Great in '68.

Other activities included the awarding of trophies and medals won in the N.R.A.'s Nationwide Marksmanship Contest and the 4th Army Junior R.O.T.C. Interscholastic Match. Also receiving awards were M SGT Despault and SSGT Haven.

Homerooms clash in intramural "touch" football.

Once again, intramurals were held at Central. This year, all the divisions participated in the intramurals, which were moderated by Bro. Lehan, and directed by both Robert Saunders and John Flume.

The sports played in the intramurals included volleyball, ping-pong, touch football and basketball. The winning homeroom in each division was allowed to keep its plaque until it loses it in one of the following seasonal sports. As usual, the winners of the freshman division played the winners of the sophomore division, and the victor played the champs of the junior-senior competition. In this year's first intramural sport, senior homeroom 301 took the championship.

A special volleyball tournament was held at Providence High School. The participating schools included Providence, Ursuline, Antoman, Holy Cross, and Central. Central won top honors in that competition.

In contrast to all the other sports, ping-pong was played individually, rather than as a team. All Centralites were invited to participate. After many games had been played, Central's two top players met at half time at a basketball game to compete for the championship.

and Others

This year, great progress was made by the several drives sponsored by the Student Body and the Mother's and Father's Clubs. Overall, the cooperation of the entire Student Body was satisfactory, and at times, excellent.

On November 19, the Mother's Club held their annual games party. The money obtained from the drive is used to help sponsor many activities in order to support Central's many extra-curricular activities.

The Fang Drive this year was very successful. An increase in pages and color are signs of publicity and the strong efforts of the entire Student Body. The drive, held during October and November, provided the needed funds to make the yearbook larger and better than last year's. The money provided by the Fang Drive also supports two of Central's important activities: the "Pep" and the Photography Club.

The barbecue drive held during the months of March, April and May was mainly responsible for the operation of various school organizations. Sponsored by the Mother's and Father's Clubs, the money obtained from the barbecue drive goes toward the purchasing of equipment for the athletic teams and other organizations.

Central has always been well represented at the major parades in San Antonio each year. This year has been no exception. Central's band, in their distinctive blue and white uniforms, participates in all the Fiesta Week parades, and makes a fine showing at the annual Band Festival at Alamo Stadium. The band is also called on to entertain at various civic functions and special programs.

The band makes the trip to Austin, Texas annually to participate in the University of Texas Band Day Parade. This parade is on a competitive basis for school bands from all over the state.

The fine Central Catholic drill teams, the Chaminade Guard and the Loyd Rifles, also make many appearances throughout the school year. These include the Fiesta Week parades and the city drill team competition at Alamo Stadium.

The Chaminade Guard participates in many individual tournaments, as does the Loyd Rifles Drill Team. These include competitions at Arlington, Texas A & I, and Houston.

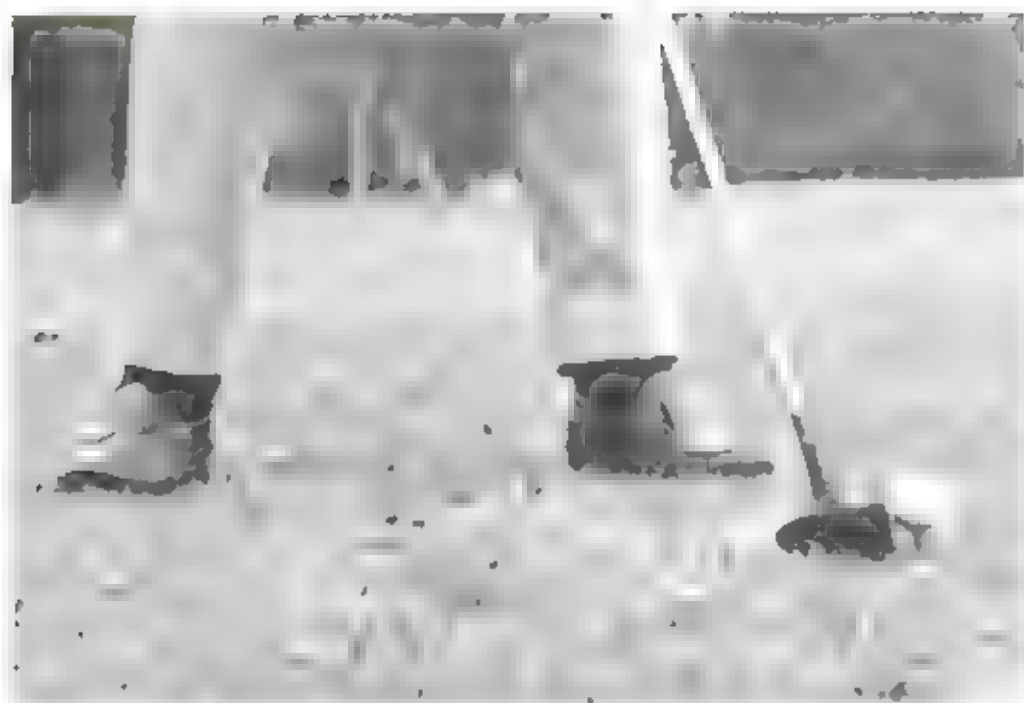

The many hours of work put in practice by the band and drill teams is truly reflected in the fine performances made by these organizations.

This year's golf team was under the direction of Mr. Art Galvan. Consisting of one senior, one junior, and seven freshmen, the team began practice in early January. At the top of the squad was senior Tom Landers who shot in the low 80's without handicap. Highlighting the frosh was Tom Lynch, a consistent mid-80's shooter. Practice driving and intra-squad competition was held at Olmos Basin, weather permitting. Despite the lack of experienced players, the golf team coach, Mr. Galvan, had plenty to work with in preparing the team for future meets.

The Central Catholic Bowling League, sanctioned by the American Junior Bowling Congress, is basically an intramural competition within a group of 12 teams. These teams compete with each other for first, second, and third place trophies to be awarded at the end of the year. Joe Cisneros was president of this year's league. Bob Rairford was treasurer and Jim Meuer was secretary. Bro. Kessel moderated the CenPros at the Turner Club lanes. A new feature of this year's league was the advent of mixed teams. Girls from Providence High School were allowed to join the CenPros for a first in the history of Central bowling. The CenPros also participated in annual, city-wide bowling tournaments with varying degrees of success.

The team also competed in high jump, broad jump, discus, and shot (all field events excluding the pole vault).

The team competed against other schools in the Holy Cross Invitational, the Antoman Invitational, and T.C.I.L. 4AAA District Meet. March 12 was the first dual meet, and was played against Holy Cross.

Buttons Drop Opener . . . Come Back

The Buttons lost their season opener to the Roosevelt Rough Riders. Action began in the first quarter when fullback Bob Nino raced 56 yards for Central's lone touchdown. Larry Jendrusch kicked to make it 7-0. Roosevelt tied the score with the aid of a Central fumble to even things up 7-7 going into the half. In the second half Roosevelt came alive to score another touchdown and a 37-yard field goal to take the contest, 17-7. Top rusher for the night was Bob Nino with 83 yards on 10 carries.

The Mustang offense completely collapsed under the Buttons' mighty defense. The Mustangs' rushing yardage tallied up to -21. The Buttons scored a total of 53 points. The offensive attack of the Buttons was led by Roland Ugarte and Richard Willborn. They led the Buttons over the goal line 8 times.

The Churchill Chargers lived up to their name as they raced past the Buttons 34-0 in a grudge match. Churchill, still licking its wounds from last year's shutout at the hands of the Buttons, scored in the first three quarters to take the win. The Button defense was stymied by the surprising attack of the fired-up Charger offense, which showed great improvement over last year's squad.

An even combination of rushing and passing provided the scoring for the Chargers, as they got two touchdowns through the air and three via the ground. Costly Button mistakes, including four fumbles, aided the Charger scoring, which was much higher than expected by Button fans.

The Buttons entered the field at Northeast Stadium on the night of October 14, hungry for an upset over their perennial rivals from Dallas, the Jesuit Rangers. They left the field much hungrier, though, and disappointed to say the least as Jesuit proved too much for the Buttons with a 38-0 clobbering of their San Antonio enemies. Scoring came in all four quarters as the Rangers racked up long yardage both on the ground and in the air. The Central offense, inspired and determined as they were, could threaten only twice against the rugged Dallas defense, moving to the Jesuit 14 in the first Quarter and to their 19 in the fourth. Bill Hubbert led the rushing with 40 yards on eight carries.

The Buttons played visitors to the Edgewood memorial Minutemen and left their hosts smarting with a 50-0 whitewashing. Finding the ground a suitable place to do their demolishing, the Buttons amassed 382 yards rushing compared to a scant 11 yards for Memorial. Everyone got into the scoring act. Bob Nino, Roland Ugarte, Arnold Salinas, Paul Siebenaler, and Richard Willborn each scored with Bill Hubbert providing the climax with a 60-yard scamper into the end zone. Defensive standouts were Dan Sorola, Mike Hrcir, and Mark Hatzenbuehler. The game provided the Buttons with plenty of momentum for the district opener with Holy Cross the following week.

Central's district title hopes were shattered by a loss to the Holy Cross Knights in a game that saw the Buttons completely dominate the statistics. Central scored first on a 73-yard drive on their first possession. Roland Ugarte provided the score with a two-yard sneak, and Larry Jendrusch kicked to make it 7-0. A Central fumble in the second quarter set up the Knight's first touchdown, and a successful two-point conversion attempt made it 8-7. Central scored next on a 65-yard march but a missed kick proved to be the difference in the outcome as the Knights came back with a 75-yard burst in the fourth quarter to make the final score 14-13.

The Buttons journeyed south for their only game away this season to play the highly ranked AAAA-power, the Edinburg Bobcats. Although the Bobcats came out on top by a score of 22-6, the Buttons put on what was one of their best defensive efforts of the season, holding the Edinburg offense time after time on crucial third down plays. Edinburg scored first on a 31-yard gallop through the middle. A successful conversion made it 8-0. In the second quarter halfback Mike Hrcir thrilled the onlookers with a pass interception and a 65-yard run back for the Buttons only touchdown. The Bobcats came back in the third and fourth quarters with two touchdowns to settle the final score at 22-6. Outstanding players for the Buttons included substitute quarterback Richard Willborn who connected 17 times for a total of 169 yards through the air.

The hopes and prayers of many years were answered for the La Salle Falcons at the Central Catholic Homecoming game. The falcons caught the Buttons by surprise, tripping them 33-0 in the second district encounter for both teams. The Button secondary fell to the Falcon aerial attack which netted them 273 yards for the day. Central was only able to threaten twice in the game, moving first to the Falcon 17 and then later to their 19 yard line. Leading rushers for the Buttons were Bob Nino with 121 yards and Bill Hubbert with 56 yards. The loss left the Buttons with a 0-2 district record with but one game remaining against St. Gerard's.

Victory Over Royals Ends Season

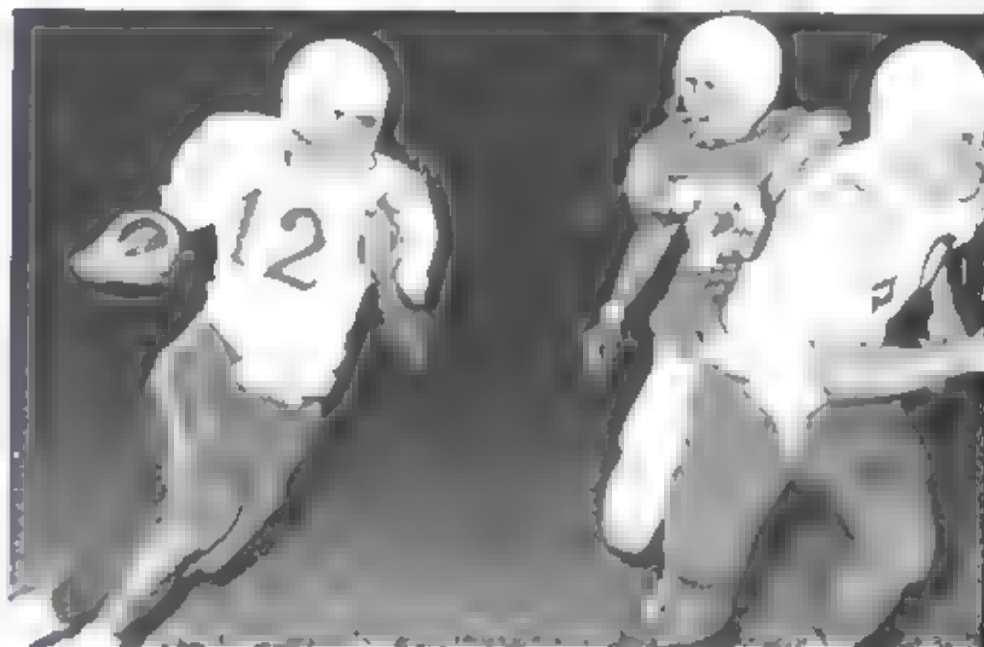

Bill Hubbert battles defender for a pass.

A third quarter pass interception led to the Central Catholic touchdown that defeated the St. Gerard's Royals 13-7, in the annual rivalry between the two schools. It was the homecoming for the Royals and the final game of the year for both squads. St. Gerard's grabbed an early 7-0 lead in the first quarter as they rolled around right end for 39 yards. The kick was good to make it 7-0. Central scored in the second period on a 54-yard climax with Billy Hubbert's one yard burst over center. Hubbert then tried a kick but it was no good.

That's the way things stood until the first minute of the third quarter when Jack Dysart intercepted a pass and ran to the Royal 10. Moments later, Bob Nino skirted end for three yards and the winning touchdown. The kick was good to rest the score at 13-7.

For the second season in a row, Central's Baby Buttons went through their schedule unscathed and emerged with a flawless 5-0-1 record. Overall, the Frosh scored 140 points while they allowed a scant 28 points to their opponents. Among the competition they played against were Schertz-Cibolo, Holly Cross LaSalle Kennedy, Edgewood, and Churchill. The only game not won was against the Chargers with the outcome a 14-14 tie. Outstanding players were Frank Siebenaler with 44 points, John Barbatto with 35 points, and on defense, 7 pass interceptions and Jim Wueste with three blocked punts. Credit is also to be given to the coaches of the Frosh, Mr. Jim Mollberg, Mr. Julian Vargas, and Brother Terry Buechner.

Volunteers Fall in Opener

Central's basketball season began with a promising win over AAAA-State Champs, Robert E. Lee. Tremendous spirit and great desire to win guided the Buttons to a 19-12 halftime lead. Accuracy at the free-throw line helped the Button's cause as they netted 16 of 26 while Lee managed only 5 of 13. Joe Hernandez was high scorer with 23 points.

Central faced the Wheatley Lions the following Saturday night in the Button's first home game. The more experienced Lions, No. 1 in the city, took the game by a 69-60 count, despite a 28-point outburst by Dan Higgins. The Button's upped their record to 2-1 with a close win over the Burbank Bulldogs. Taking the lead with two minutes to play, Central held on for a 49-47 win. The next day, the Buttons faced MacArthur in Blossom gym but suffered a crushing 50-35 loss at the hands of the alert Brahmas.

The Buttons journeyed south on December 1 for their annual participation in the Corpus Christi tournament. They did well in their first outing by downing Moody High of Corpus, 53-45. In the second round, however, Central suffered a 54-42 loss to Ray High School, thus bowing out of further tournament competition.

Back at home with a 3-3 record, the "Blues" took on the revenge-minded Lee Vols. Determined to make up their earlier loss to the Buttons, the Vols fought hard to squeak out a 44-42 win. The Buttons then moved on to Seguin for their second out-of-town tournament at Texas Lutheran

First to face Central were the South San Bobcats who handed the Buttons a 53-47 loss. Mike Keefe hit for 16 points to lead the Buttons. Central then entered the consolation competition and promptly disposed of Yoakum, 56-37, and Fox Tech, 62-53 to reach the finals against Roosevelt. The Buttons then bowed to the Rough Riders in a close 57-56 decision.

Central again journeyed to face South San at their gym. The Bobcats dominated once again, winning by a 54-42 margin. The Buttons, however, came alive the following Friday night against the Judson Rockets, doubling the Rockets' scoring efforts 61-30. Judson was stunned throughout the whole game, never posing a threat in the Button victory.

The Buttons faced South San for the third and final meeting of the two teams. The Bobcats proved their superiority to the determined Buttons with a 61-51 triumph. Central's next home game was more successful as captain Dan Higgins tore up the Kennedy defense with a spectacular 37 point outburst, the highest scoring effort by any Button of the season. Central's exceptional second half performance put the Buttons out of reach of the Rockets for good.

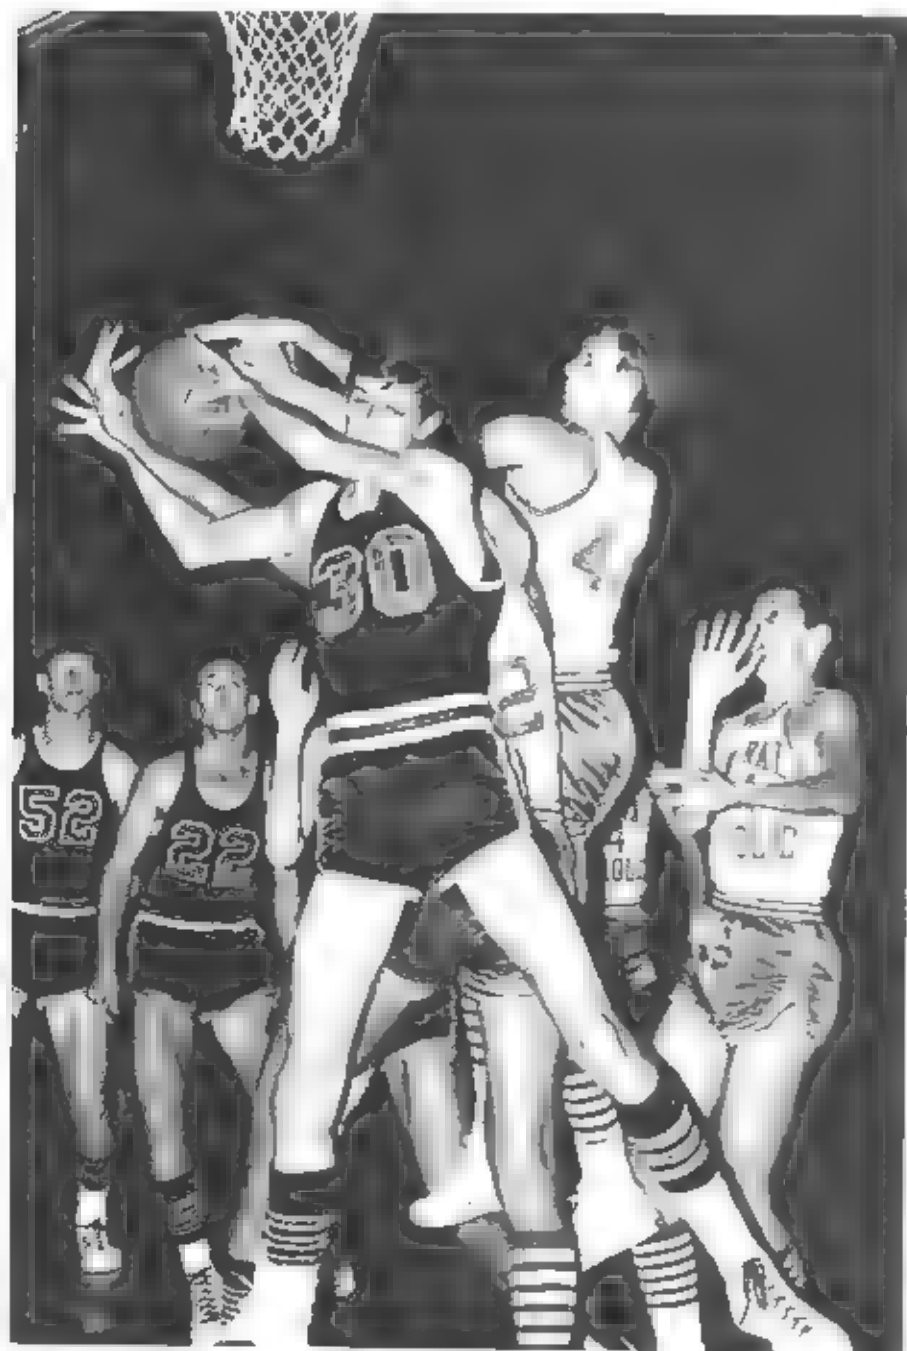

The Buttons took a 7 day Christmas vacation before entering competition in the San Antonio Invitational Tournament. Their first opponents were the John Jay Mustangs whom the Buttons disposed of quite easily, 59-26. In second round competition, Central faced the Churchill Chargers. The Buttons fell behind early in the game, and despite a late rally, lost by a 64-57 margin. The loss eliminated Central from further tournament competition.

Frank Gonzalez keeps the ball from being stolen.

The Buttons met the John Marshall Rams in the Central gym. The Rams strong offense exploded in the first quarter and took a quick lead over the Buttons which they kept the whole game. Dan Higgins scored 25 points for the Buttons. Despite a late rally by the Buttons, the Rams won 64-57.

The John F. Kennedy Rockets defeated the Buttons in the two teams' second meeting this year. The Rockets scored 66 points, leaving the Buttons with 58. Wayne Marlow with 14 points was high man for the Buttons.

Royals Fall in District Opener

Tom Crumrine goes in for a layup.

The Buttons entered their first district game against the Royals. The Royals put up a strong battle against the defending T.C.I.L. state champs and led the Buttons for the first three quarters. With 2 seconds of regular play left Mike Keefe made a field goal to tie the score. The Buttons won in overtime by 51-47.

The Holy Cross Knights defeated the Buttons in both teams' second district game. The Knights led by 1 point in the final seconds. Two points scored on a 1 and 1 free throw put victory out of reach for the Buttons. Dan Higgins scored 20 to lead the Buttons. Final score was 56-53.

Unicorns and Falcons Fall

Joe Hernandez leaps for loose ball.

In a non-district game, the Buttons fought off two late rallies by New Braunfels to post a 71-65 victory over the Unicorns in Central's gym. The Buttons twice led by as many as 15 points, but both times had the margin closed to within two points before the Unicorns fell back again. Joe Hernandez led the scoring with 21 points, and Tom Crumrine put in 18 as Central upped its record one notch to 10-12.

In their third district game, the Buttons capitalized at the free-throw line, hitting 21 of 24 attempts to down La Salle, 53-44. The victory boosted Central's record to 2-1 in district play. The Buttons led by 24-22 at the half and built up a steady lead, never leading by more than the final margin of nine points. Tom Crumrine was high man for the night, scoring 10 of his 21 points in the final quarter.

The Antonian Apaches met Central's Buttons for the very first time. Both teams took turns in holding the lead, but the Apaches proved too strong and defeated the Buttons 53-46. Joe Hernandez scored 15 and Wayne Marlow 13 for the Central Catholic Buttons.

The St. Gerard's Royals broke loose to defeat the Central Catholic Buttons. As in the first game with St. Gerard's, the Buttons found the Royals to be a difficult foe to overcome. Accuracy from the foul line kept the Royals in the lead during the final quarter. Final score was 55-50, Royals.

Buttons Fall in Two Close Games

In their final non-district game of the year, the Buttons lost a very close battle with the Holmes Huskies. Central cut the Huskies' lead of 13 points in the third quarter down to 1, then went ahead by three early in the fourth period. Holmes fought hard to make the game a see-saw battle to the end, until two free throws for the dogs settled the score at 51-49 in their favor.

Two nights later, Central faced Holy Cross in the two teams' second encounter. The Buttons held the lead for most of the game until a late Knight rally changed the contest into another back-and-forth battle. The lead changed hands 7 times before the Knights shot out ahead for good to win it, 52-47. Hernandez paced the Buttons with 14 points.

Apaches Spoil Buttons' Finale

Wayne Marlow delivers a perfect lay-up

At the La Salle gym for their last battle with the Falcons, the Buttons scored first with a field goal and then stayed on top the rest of the way to defeat the Falcons, 67-61. Although they never fell behind, the Buttons did have their lead cut down to two points in the final quarter before racing ahead again to take the game. The Buttons led at the half by 39-34. Joe Hernandez, Wayne Marlow, and Frank Gonzalez scored in double figures with 21, 16, and 16 points respectively.

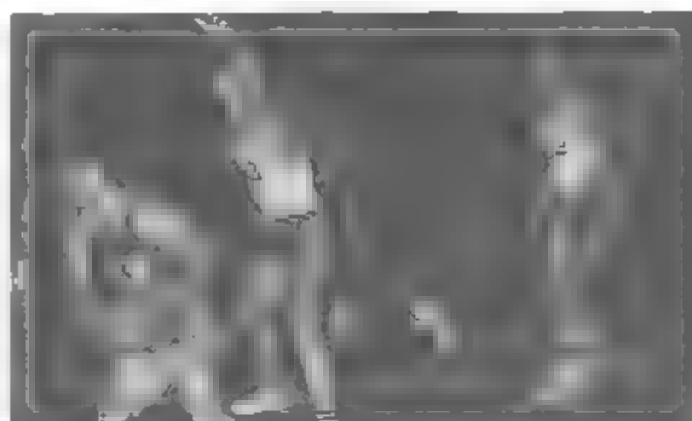

In their final game of the year, the Buttons met the Antonian Apaches at St. Mary's gym. After taking a 24-17 half time lead, the Buttons fell to a typical Apache rally. The Apaches maintained their lead till the end, when they put on a stall to end the Buttons' hope for a victory. Final score was 43-40, to wrap up Central's season with a 12-17 record.

Frosh White Romp to 7-2, Blue Have 3-6 Season

The CCHS Freshman team this year became "two" teams under an experiment thought up by Athletic Director Joe Cortez. The Frosh were divided into the "Blues," coached by Mr. Tony Valek, and the "Whites," coached by Brother Harry Cornell. Both teams played a nine-game schedule including two games in which the two teams were matched. The "Whites" proved their superiority with a 7-2 record, while the "Blues" ended with a 3-6 record.

Baseballers Suit-up in February

Jack Dysart leads the pack in pre-season laps.

Brother Janson keeps an eye open for stragglers.

The Buttons' Baseball team began working out early in February. The team had a new coach this year in Brother Herbert Janson, a man who takes his baseball seriously. The team had a month of shaping up to do before playing their first game against Alamo Heights. Hopefuls for this year's squad included seniors Jack Dysart, Ron Harris, Roland Ugarte, Dan DeRiemer, and Victor Gonzalez. The team saw action in one tournament this year, the North East Tournament, held March 8th and 9th. The Buttons' home field was situated at Olmos Basin, and practice field was at Central's North Campus on Walzem Road.

Varsity Played 21-Game Schedule

The Buttons' schedule this year saw a total of 19 regularly scheduled games and one tournament. Included in their regular schedule were eight district games, the first against the St. Gerard's Royals on March 26. The baseballers faced a new adversary in district play, the Antonian Apaches.

The End of a School

Year: Revel and Roister

Nobody cries at the end of the school year. It enlivens everybody. Lightened and ready for fresh impressions, freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior now sparkle in the bright life of their summer.

The faces of time merry-go-round, and clock and bell staccato through our lives. Hours of friendship are made up of faces. We plan our happy times in their company, counting on their friendship through entriging tomorrows.

The revel of people makes us bright as the summer. For togetherness is the life of youth that grows carefree and tender.

Profiles of calibre. We master the silver diamond, the blue blazer. We delight in the band uniform, and show stature in the student council. These are the nobilities of Central's mark.

Where are we adventuring? Into the summer, to the broad horizon . . .

Within the covers of this book, the Fang Staff has tried to capture the major events of the past year. Through new photo-journalistic techniques, the use of full-color, and a combination of special effects, the staff has showed what they feel was important to the majority of the students. What you have just looked through is the product of about ten months of planning and hard work. Work was not always confined to a few hours after school; members were seen around school till the late midnight hours, for days at end; (and I am afraid that a few report cards showed this.) These people, I admire, for their personal perserverence. On the opposite page is a list of all people connected with the yearbook. Some of these contributed greatly; others not so much. Of all the people, I feel that the following need special consideration:

Mazuca, Briseno, and Barnett, for their great job on the Introduction;
Bauml and Eisenhauer, who worked long and hard on a section which comprised about one-half of the yearbook;
Reynolds and Henkel, who introduced new ideas in the presentation of Sports;
Tim Kenny and his staff, who did a tremendous job on the pictures you find herein;

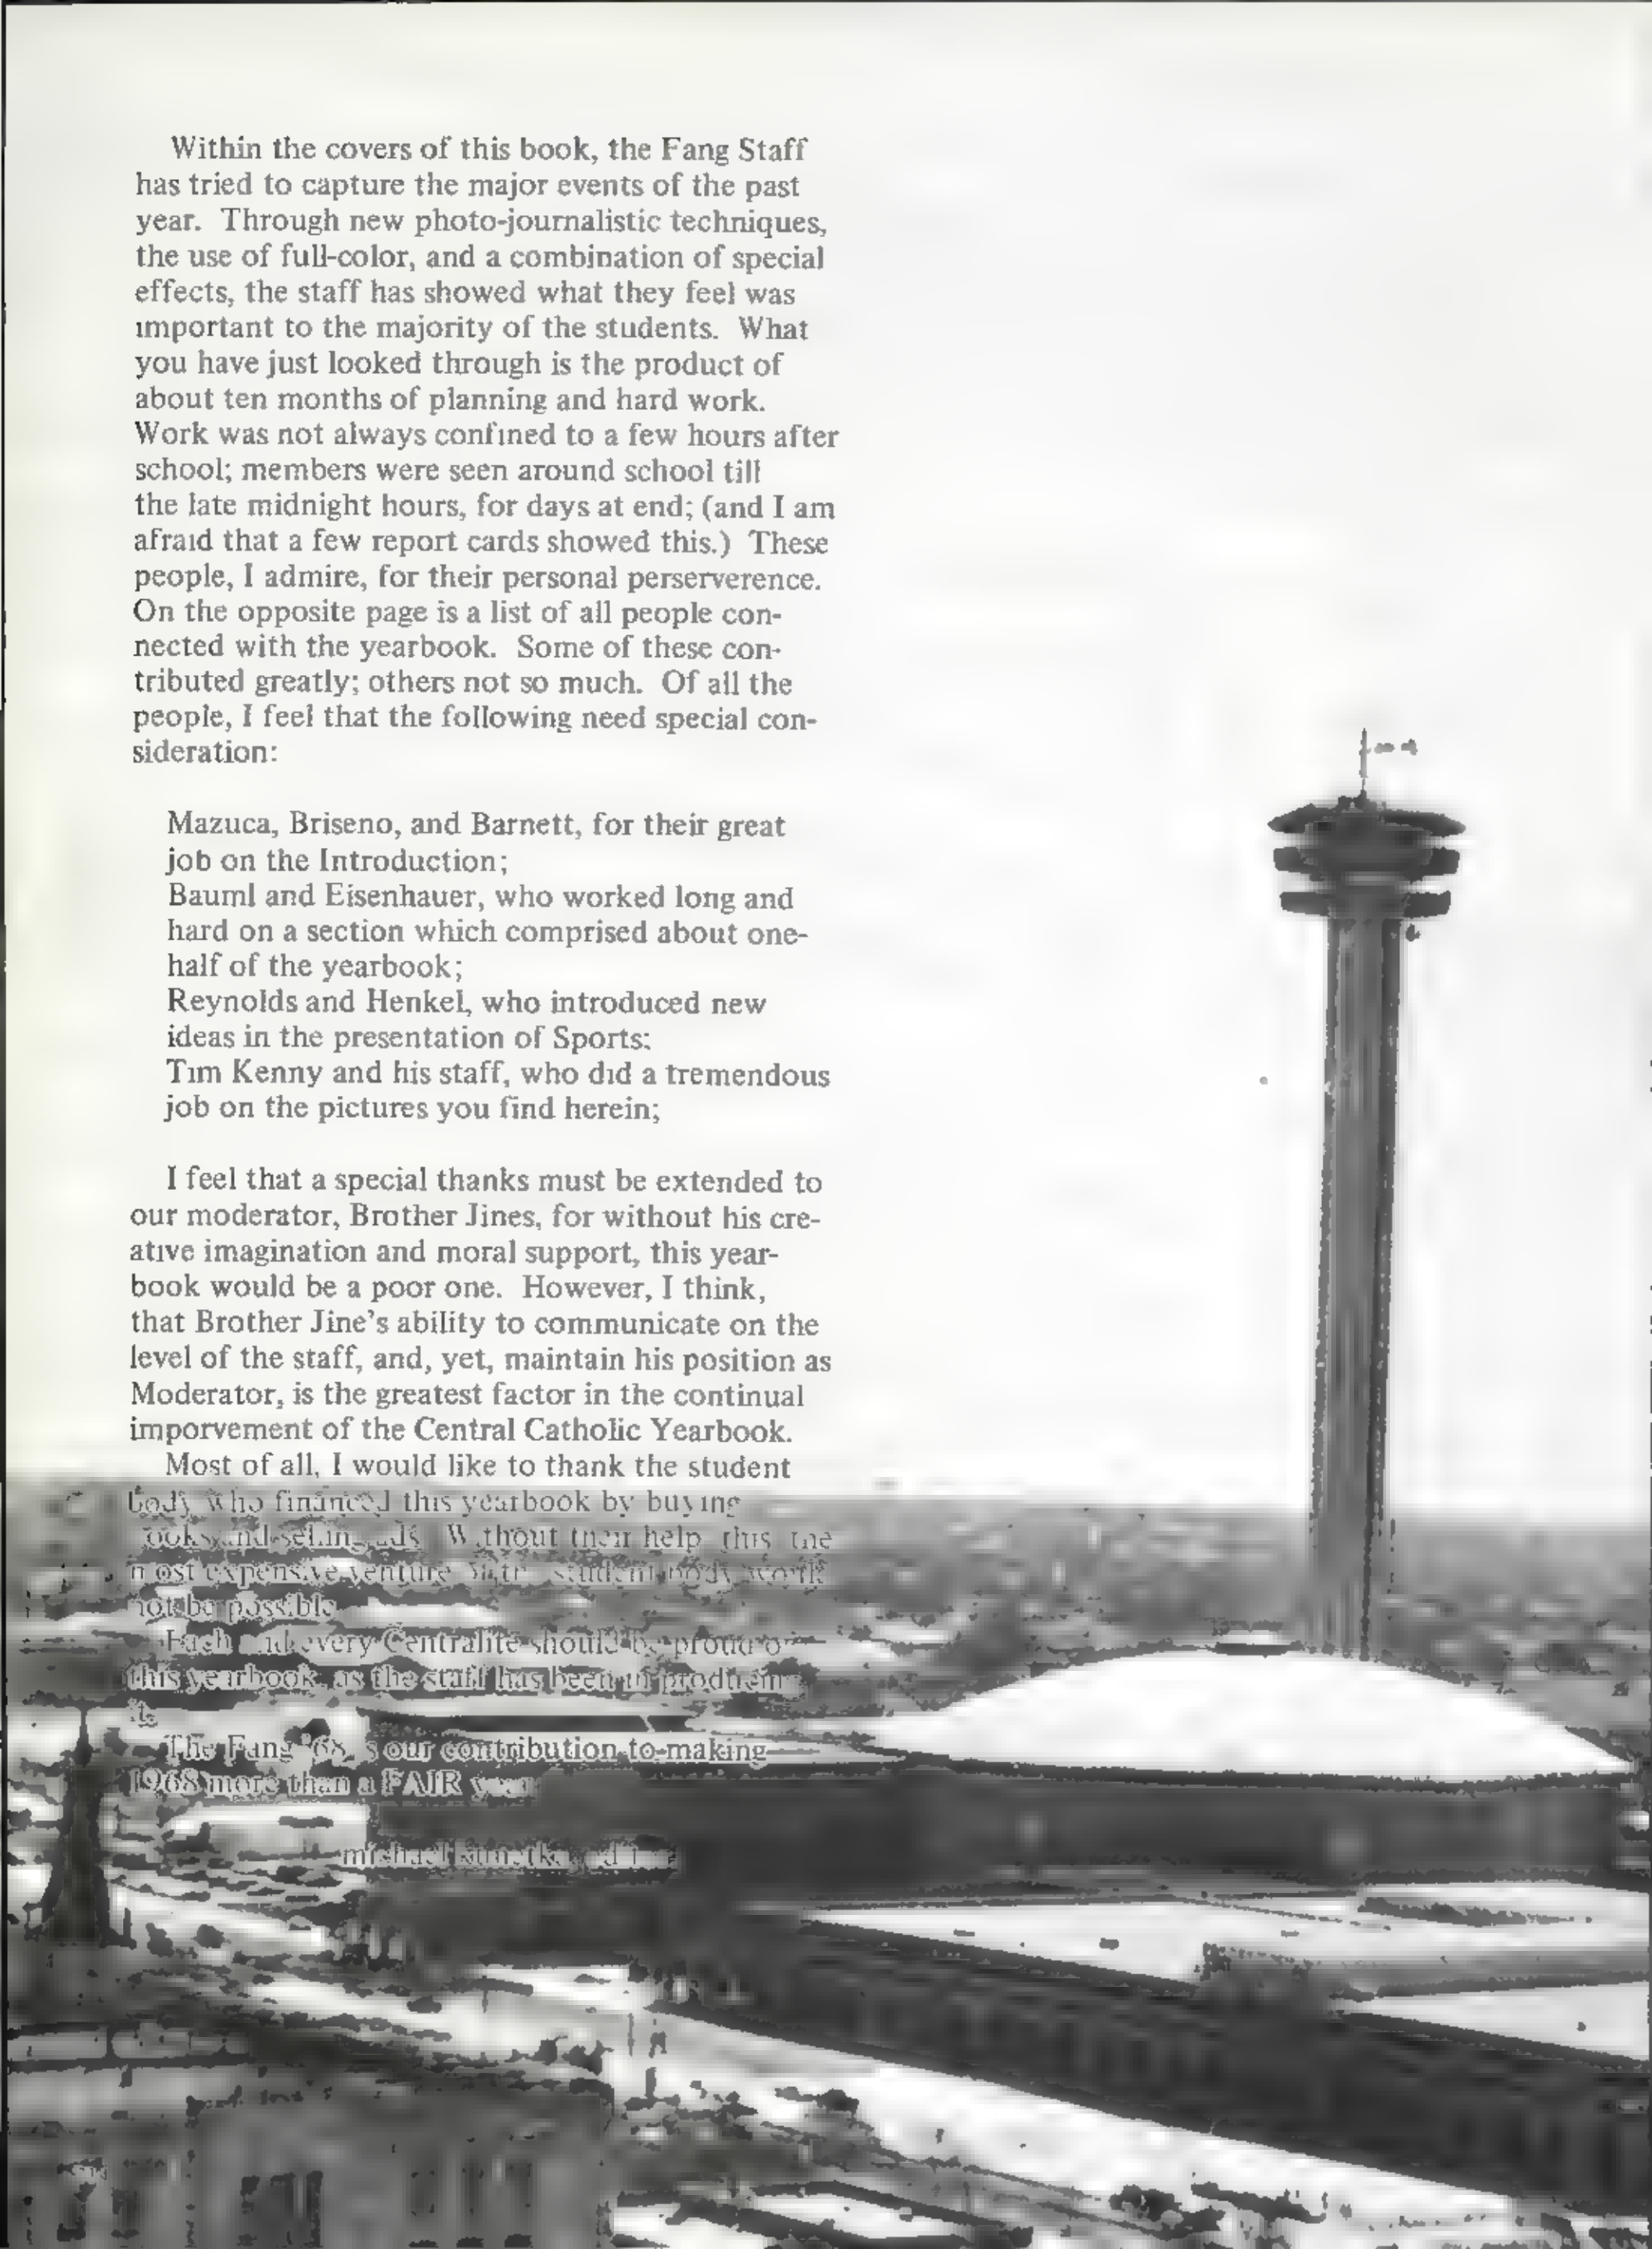

I feel that a special thanks must be extended to our moderator, Brother Jines, for without his creative imagination and moral support, this yearbook would be a poor one. However, I think, that Brother Jine's ability to communicate on the level of the staff, and, yet, maintain his position as Moderator, is the greatest factor in the continual improvment of the Central Catholic Yearbook.

Most of all, I would like to thank the student body who financed this yearbook by buying books and selling ads. Without their help this the most expensive venture in the student body would not be possible.

Each and every Centralite should be proud of this yearbook, as the staff has been in producing it.

The Fang '68 is our contribution to-making 1968 more than a FAIR year.

The '68 Fang was printed on 80 pound vellum paper in Bodoni headlines of 24, 30, and 36 point height. The copy body was flush left 10 point, and captions 7 point IBM. More than 1600 black and white photographs, and 12 full color pictures, were in the pages. Formal portraits were taken by Fox Company, and the liner was photographed by Zintgraph, Incorporated, all other photographs were taken by the Central Catholic High School Photo Department.

The book is bound by a 150 point board covered with black shoe grain, embossed with a rubbed antique gold seal.

The Intercollegiate Press of Shawnee Mission, Kansas printed 600 copies.
